EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

BLAINE is now at Hamburg, Germany.

REPUBLICAN primary elections next Saturday.

THE Democratic State Convention will meet in Allentown next week.

INDIANA, since being carried by the Democrats, has become nearly bankrupt.

IT is announced that third party Prohibitionists will go into the next campaign with ardent spirits.

LET every Republican in Centre county see to it that he is registered and that he has a receipt for state and county tax within two years.

DR. N. A. RANDOLPH, professor of physiology in the University of Pennsylvania, was drowned at Longport on Sunday, while bathing.

THE Democrats were not pleased with the Republican State convention, which is one of the most important proofs that its work was well done.

IT has been announced several times that Stanley, the African explorer, is dead; but we refuse to believe such a sad item of news except on the most reliable evidence.

LET the Republicans nominate any representative member of their party for President. We will heartily support the nominee of the Republican National Convention.

AT the constitutional centennial there are to be two naval models—one representing a man of war of one hundred years ago; the other representing a similar vessel of to-day.

A RUNAWAY horse at Atlantic City, on Sunday, leaped onto the veranda of the West End hotel, seriously frightening five hundred ladies who were duly engaged in relating the latest gossip.

THE reunion of the Pennsylvania Reserve Association, which was appointed to be held in Lancaster on September 14, has been postponed that it may not interfere with the centennial in Philadelphia.

CHAIRMAN COOPER announces that the Republican State Committee will begin its work next Monday. He does not intend to lose any time, and he will bring out as large a vote as it is possible to get in an off year like this.

ON Saturday there was an eclipse of the sun visible in Europe. At least, it would have be visible there had not clouds prevailed almost everywhere. One intrepid astronomer in Russia ascended above the clouds in a balloon and made several valuable observations.

GOV. BEAVER has appointed Judge Williams, the nominee of the Republicans in this State, to the position of Supreme Judge, to succeed the late Chief Justice Mercur. The appointment by the Governor will be ratified by the people next November, when he will be continued in the position 21 years.

IN Texas, the other day, on the Santa Fe railroad, there was a peculiar accident, showing what a disastrous effect such an insignificant animal as a calf can cause. The calf was on the track and threw the engine from it, seriously scalding Samuel White, the engineer; Cassell, his firemen, and a man named Con Suceny.

THE English Government has proclaimed the Land League, which we believe means to declare it a criminal organization. For that reason Chamberlin has withdrawn himself from his recent alliance with the Tory party. Others will follow. Gladstone regards it as the last desperate move of the Salisbury government, and the Liberal party generally seems to be pleased.

Two State Nominees.

On Wednesday, the 17th of August, the Republicans of this State nominated two gentlemen for the suffrages of the people.

Possibly some one of the other polical parties will also name candidates for the two offices, although to do so will be entirely unnecessary, as the Republican candidates are sure of election.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM B. HART.

was the gentleman named for the office of State Treasurer. He was born in Montgomery county, Pa., on March 15, 1842, and was educated in the common schools. At the age of fourteen he commenced to earn his own livelihood by his own seeking as a farm hand Arriving at the age of 17, he was apprenticed to the brick laying business for four years, having served two and one-half years, when the call for three years' troops was made in 1861. He enlisted as a private in Company F, Fifty-first Pennsylvania Volunteers, for three years, and served with great gallantry in the East and Southwest, participating in all the battles in which his command was engaged. His manly qualities and soldierly bearing attracted the attention of General Hartranft, who recommended him in a highly flattering manner to Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War, for appointment as an assistant adjutant general of the volunteers, with the rank of captain; upon this recommendation, and after passing a creditable examination he was immediately appointed, and served with General Hartranft's command until the close of the war, being mustered out of service as a volunteer officer under war department orders dated September 19th, 1865.

In February, 1867, Captain Hart received an appointment to a clerkship in the Treasury Department, and was appointed to the responsible position of cashier in 1871, succeeding the Hon. Thomas Nicholson, whose confidence and friendship Captain Hart enjoyed to the end of his predecessor's life. The following extract from a private letter written in October, 1871, (after Captain Hart had accepted the clerkship) will serve to illustrate the confidence reposed in him by representative men at that time: "With his pleasing manner, great qualifications, strict integrity, he ought to succeed, and he must succeed." In 1877 he was nominated for the office of State Treasurer by the Republican convention which met in that year. He continued as cashier of the Tressury Department under a number of State Treasurers until 1878, when the election of Amos C. Noyes, Democrat, made a change in that office. Upon the organization of the Huntingdon Reformatory Commission, some of the members of which were familiar with Captain Hart's qualifications for the position, he was selected as Secretary of the Commission, which position he has continued to hold to the present time. Upon the organization of the Commonwealth Guarantee, Trust and Safe Deposit Company in 1881, he was elected cashier, in which highly responsible and honorable position he continues to-day.

Captain Hart, in the various positions which he has held, has proved himself an honest, faithful, efficient and incorruptible public servant, and at no time during his life has he been found wanting in the performance of his duties. He is a genial, generous, warm hearted and modest gentleman, with the power of making and retaining friends. Consistent in his Republicanism he has at all times adhered to the principles for which he fought on the field of battle.

JUDGE HENRY W. WILLIAMS.

was the gentleman named for Supreme Judge and a glorious nomination it was He is a resident of Tioga county, Pa. He was born at Harford, Susquehanna county, Pa., July 30, 1830. At Franklin Academy he was fitted for admission to the Sophomore class of Amherst College, but was prevented from entering by a severe illness which disabled him for study for two years. At the age of twenty-two he began the study of law at Montrose. In 1852 he went to Wellsboro, where he continued his law studies until 1854, when he was admitted to the bar of the State. In the month of March in the following year he was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, and in 1858 to the United States District and Circuit Courts. Mr. Williams, immediately upon his admission to the bar took a high rank and won much fame as an advocate, being an eloquent, fluent and logical speaker. In March, 1865, his was appointed additional law judge for the district composed of the counties of Tioga, Potter, McKean, Elk and Cameron, and the following fall he was elected for the term of ten years. In 1871 he was elected President Judge of the same district, and in 1881 he was unanimously re-elected. In 1874 Judge Williams was appointed one of a board of seven Commissioners to revise the New Constitution, and in 1877 he was one of the delegates representing the Presbyterian Church of the United States at the Pan-Presbyterian Council at Edinburgh, Scotland.

Judge Williams is a man of profound learning, a close and diligent student, with wide intelligence, and a clear judicial mind. He is a man of fine presence, of amiable disposition, and is popular in legal and social circles.

Republican Platform.

The Republicans of Pennsylvania, at their convention on Wednesday, the 17th, adopted the following platform of principles:

"The Republican party of Pennsylvania, in Convention assembled, declare:

"1. That they reaffirm their declaration of 1886 in favor of submitting to a vote of the people the prohibitory constitutional amendment. We also endorse the action of the last Legislature in the submission of the amendment making suffrage free by abolishing the tax qualification for a vote.

"2. We favor a tariff for the sake of nurturing American manufactures until the industries and resources of this country furnish its people with every item of consumption they can naturally produce, and for the purpose of protecting home labor against foreign labor as well as it products. It is likewise the part of that Protective policy, of which Pennsylvania has been the parent, to protect American workmen from the unequal and unjust competiton of imported contract and pauper labor; and we demand the passage of more vigorous national laws for the scrutiny of immigration, and the return of the unfit and the unworthy. In this connection we declare our abhorrence of Anarchistic ideas and propositions, destructive of the rights of property and our system of society and government. Their resultant violations of the law should be visited with prompt and extreme penalties.

"3. We favor the creation of an American marine by the provision of bounties upon exports and discriminating duties upon imports in American bottoms.

"4. The soldiers of the Union are worthy of the lasting gratitude and continued favor of a restored Government, and the surplus in the Treasury can not better be distributed than in the enlargement of the general pension list, so as to include all honorably discharged soldiers of the Union army who may be in absolute need of public aid.

"5. We approve the action of the Legislature, touching the revenues of the Commonwealth in diverting a large portion of the direct State tax and the receipts from licenses to the treasurers of the different cities and counties, and especially endorse that part of the General Revenue bill which continued to impose the support of the State Government upon the corporations of the Commonwealth, and brought within the purview of the law for taxation a large amount of moneys at interest in the hands of corporations not previously reached. We believe that a new bill perfecting these features should be matured by the Commission charged with that duty, with a view of having it submitted to the present Legislature for enactment in time to meet the assessment of next year, provided the Governor shall deem the calling of an extra session for this purpose such an extraordinary occasion as is contemplated by the twelfth section of the Fourth Article of the Constitution.

"6 We give an unqualified endorsement to the Republican State Administration. By careful and conscientious discharge of duty it has reflected high credit upon the party which called it into power, and gives assurance to the people of an economical and wise administration of the affairs of the Commonwealth.

"7. We arraign the Democratic party and the present national Administration for general imbecility in dealing with all great national questions. The only energy they have exhibited has been in the displacement of experienced officers without cause, and in direct violation of their civil service pledges. The national Administration seems to have no policy beyond expediency, and no principle beyond the establishment of its succession. In order to preserve a solid Democratic South President Cleveland has endeavored to nurture sectionalism by the preference to distinguished station of soldiers prominent in the effort to destroy the Government, by his refusal to sanction pensions to soldiers eminent in efforts to sustain it, and by his proposition to take from among the national trophies the banners of an extinct military power won by a lavish expenditure of the blood and treasure of the country, to surrender them to those whom he supposed to inherit its prejudices, and who were without either desire or authority to receive them.

"The Republicans of Pennsylvania, the native State of Hon. James G. Blaine, will view with pleasure his nomination for the presidency in the campaign of 1888. Accident cannot abate the love of a great party nor the admiration of a great people for a statesman true alike to his convictions and to his country.

"Resolved, That while we gladly recognize some change for the better in the sentiment of certain portions of the Southern States in reference to the colored citizens, it would be contrary to Republican principles not to express our detestation of and our opposition to the discrimination still practiced because of color against the citizens when traveling on the public highways of certain portions of the South, and we earnestly appeal to our sister states where such wrong exists and to the National Government to remedy this injustice.

"Resolved, That this Convention recommends that in the nomination of candidates for Congress and the State Senate the nominations be made either directly by the people at the primary elections, or, where that is not deemed practicable by district conventions composed of delegates elected by the people, representation to be provided on a fair and equitable basis, but each election district to have at least one delegate.

"Resolved, That the Republican party of Pennsylvania in convention assembled extend to the Hon. William E. Gladstone, Hon. Charles Stewart Parnell and their associates its profound sympathy and hearty concurrence in their great and earnest efforts to secure to the people of Ireland independence and liberty of action for themselves in political affairs and their struggle to secure free government, and bid them cheerful Godspeed in their great work of humanity.

"Resolved, That we commend the conduct of previous campaigns by Hon. Thomas V. Cooper and recommend that he again be appointed chairman of the Republican State Committee."

THE Revenue Commission will doubtless soon have a revenue bill prepared which will be much more satisfactory to the entire State than even the one which failed because of a blunder in the legislature. It is now proposed to prepare two bills, embodying the two classes af opinions in the commission and at the next and final meeting of the commission a bill will be prepared to be submitted to the special session of the legislature called to consider it. The stumbling point seems to be the taxing of railroad corporations. To tax the actual value, represented in both stock and bonds, seems to be the proper way, but whether such a law could pass the ordeal of the Supreme Court is a question. Formulate the bill and call the extra session with as much speed as possible.

THE Democratic Administration is strictly civil service reform? For this reason, we suppose, it discharged Geo. W. Atkinson from his position as Inspector of Boilers in Pittsburg. Mr. Atkinson is said by all steamboat men to be the most competent man they know of. Now the Democrats are in a quandary, because they cannot find a Democrat competent to take his place. What beautiful reform!

THE only interest that seems to be shown anywhere in the coming democratic convention at Allentown is displayed by Editor Singerly's accomplished staff of political economists. The double-leaded fervor with which they appeal to the delegates day after day to crush the wicked Randall under a load of Free Trade timber in the platform is touching to behold.

The Next President.

It has already become an important and pressing question:—Who is to be the next President? The majority of the Democratic party seem to have settled down into the conviction that Grover Cleveland is to be their candidate, without let or hindrance. We think they are very nearly right in this conjecture. The Democratic party have no other man so eligible—no other who would command so general a support of the party. Any running administration can give strong support to the candidate of its own choice, and when the chief executive wishes to succeed himself he can count on the support of the thousands of officials, and all their sub-ordinates, that make up the working force of all departments in the Government. This consideration alone will afford Mr. Cleveland a good basis and reason for renomination; and because he has such assurance of support the party will feel constrained to accept him.

Speaking as a Republican, we hope that Mr. Cleveland will be the nominee of the Democratic party. We want a fair test made of the intelligence of this Nation. If the people of this country are satisfied with Democratic principles, and rule, as demonstrated and practiced by the present Administration, by all means let them be gratified. But, before yielding to such condition, we propose to have a fair test made of the public will. Whether we are to fall back into the sloughs of pro-slavery democracy must be determined by the popular vote. We must know whether the march of Republican empire is toward a higher civilization, or having a retrograde tendency to the primary conditions of human society.

After twenty-four years of progressive Government this country finds itself again under the leading-strings of the same democracy that was powerless to avert the late civil war, or had not the patriotism to prevent it.

That we are now under democratic rule is the result of a mistake in the Republican party, and of an over-confidence in the promises of the Democratic party. The result of this change in the administration of national affairs has been hurtful to the interests of the people; and the question, Who shall be the next President? becomes of paramount importance to every citizen. Shall we continue the Democratic rule under Cleveland? or shall we put back the government into the hands of the party which saved the life of the Nation, restored true Republican liberty on this continent, and which brought the country to the highest degree of happiness and prosperity ever realized by any nation on earth.

The people will give an emphatic answer to these questions, and they are already prepared to do it. The process of regaining the lost ground, and of recuperation, is plain, simple, and of easy accomplishment.

What this country needs is ability, dignity, true manhood, and acknowledged statesmanship, in the Chief Executive of the Nation. All this may be secured and will be secured by the election of

JAMES G. BLAINE

President of the United States. We do not hesitate to declare that such will be the decision of the American people in the Presidential election of 1888.

To this end may the wisdom and unity of the Republican party be directed and maintained. HIRAM TORREY.

EX-STATE TREASURER VINCENT, of Alabama, who some time ago, while he was the custodian of the State funds, ran away with two hundred thousand dollars, has been sentenced to an imprisonment of five years. This is a healthful sign of the existence of some justice in the South. Vincent was a Democratic politician, and it was thought at one time that his friends would be able to save him from punishment. This has been a bad year, however, for public thieves all over the United States.

Poetry.

"GOING FOR THE COWS."

Long before the crimson sunset
Flashes on the farmhouse panes;
Long before the misty purple
Down the distant valley wanes;
Wistful eyes are looking fieldwards
While the patient grandma sews;
And the old clock on the mantel,
Tic, tic, tic, so drowsy goes.
"Dear me, Jenny," cries the grandma,
With her specs above her brows;
"Do be quiet, it's so early,
Lots of time to fetch the cows!"

Shadows lengthen down the mountain,
And the swallows wing their round;
Scarlet sunlight flashes brightly
O'er the daisy laden ground,
Anxious eyes are at the window
Looking down the meadow lane;
Tinny fingers softly tapping
On the kitchen window pane.
"Bless me, Jenny," calls the grandma,
"There's no peace in all the house,
Do go, if you can't be quiet—
Go at once and fetch the cows!"

Light the step that bent the clover,
Tripping oe' the meadow wide!
Two were meeting there together,
Talking softly side by side!
Up the lane comes Jet and Snowball,
Brindle, Bess, with step so slow,
While the sunset softly lingers
On a maiden's cheek aglow.
"Girls are girls," old grandma whispers,
As she sees them through the boughs:
"Once I went, I well remember,
Very early for the cows!"

THE FAIRY WEDDING.

'Twas the middle of the night
And the moon was silver bright,
And the owl and the bat were skimming through the air,
I saw the fairies dancing,
And the fairy lights a glancing,
And 'twas down in the meadow, but I won't tell where.

Round they danced, and in the middle
Was a fairy with a fiddle,
And he sat upon a daisy which was swinging in the air,
And I saw a fairy bride,
With her goodman by her side,
And 'twas down in the meadow, but I won't tell where.

I was walking there with Kate,
And we knew 'twas over late,
But I had so much to tell her, and she looked so bright and fair,
We peeped among the clover,
And we watched till it was over,
And 'twas down in the meadow, but I won't tell where

Our Story Teller

WHAT SHE DREAMED OF.

"I don't see what ails the girl!" said Mrs. Popley, stratching her nose with the extreme end of her knitting-needle. "I s'posed she'd be perfectly contented. Took out of the very edge o' the workhouse, as it were, and made sort of 'own folks here, with a corner bedroom to herself and a fringed towel on the bureau, as a lady couldn't hev no nicer! And here she is, frettin' and cryin' half the time."

"They're a fault-findin' set, anyhow," said Dorcas Jones. "Ain't no use trying to satisfy them. I've give it up, long ago. Hired gals is hired-gals!"

"But she ain't a hired-gal!" protested Mrs. Popley. "I've took her all the same as my own."

"More fool you!" remarked Miss Jones.

But she keenly observed Merietta Tyson (commonly called "Maritty") when she brought in the teapot, and the plate of hot biscuit for supper.

"A tall girl, with eyes as black as cherries, and cheeks for all the world like they had been painted," muttered she to herself. "She's pretty, I'll allow. I wouldn't take no such hired-gal into our house, with John Henry around. Men are so queer. "I'd ruther do the housework myself, until I drop."

Dorcas Jones's visit was rather prolonged, and it was nine o'clock—a portentously late hour for those country wildernesses—when at last the redoubtable John Henry escorted his aunt home, and Mrs. Popley came into the kitchen, where Maritty sat moodily by the fire.

"Maritty," said she, "is everything ready to lock up and go to bed?"

"Yes, Mrs. Popley."

The old lady came to a dead standstill.

"Maritty," said she, "you've been crying again."

Maritty jumped up and threw her arms around Mrs. Popley's neck.

"I can't help it!" she sobbed. "Oh, I can't help it. I am so unhappy!"

"What troubles you, Maritty?" said the old lady kindly.

"I—I want to be a lady!" sobbed Maritty. "I want a house of my own, with a piano in the best room, and a carpet on the floor—that's what I want!"

"Hush!" said Mrs. Popley. "What's that?"

Maritty turned scarlet.

"It's the wind rattling the laylock bushes against the wooden shutters," said she.

"No, 'tain't said Mrs. Popley. "It's somebody knocking. Open the door Maritty!"

"It's rats!" persisted the girl, who was now as pale as ashes. "I—I often hear them when I'm here all by myself."

"Nonsense!" cried Mrs. Popley. "Do you s'pose I don't know rats when I hear them? Open the door, I say, or I'll open it myself!"

And she did open it herself, for Maritty had sunk trembling on a chair, her face covered by both hands.

A little old man stood there under the dew-dropping lilac-bushes, his white hair gleaming in the starlight, a certain imploring look in his faded eyes.

"Good gracious!" said Mrs. Popley, "it's a tramp; and Popley gone to the city!"

The old man, however, did not seem to hear her.

"Maritty!" he said in a faint, subdued voice—"where's Maritty? I want to speak to Maritty."

"I wonder," said Mrs. Popley, in a sudden panic, "if we'd better loose the dog? Oh, Maritty! you'd better out across the fields and tell John Henry Jones and his aunt to come back? They can't be gone far."

But Maritty had recovered herself all of a sudden. She rose and came to the door.

"No," said she, "tain't necessary to do that. It ain't a tramp—least-ways it ain't a tramp that will do you any harm, Mrs. Popley. It's—my father."

"Your father, Maritty!" gasped the good old woman.

"Yes," the girl doggedly answered. "He's on the town at Mudville, poor father is. I told you, didn't I," with a hard mirthless laugh, "that we weren't a very prosperous family? And they ain't very good to him, nor he don't get any too much to eat; and so I've taken the liberty every night to give him the sour milk that was left in the pail. Father's dreadful partial to sour milk, and I didn't think it any harm, and ——"

"Harm!" cried the old woman. "Tell him to come in—tell him to sit down right away. Give him some of the raspberry short-cake and a glass of milk outen the night's milken.' But why on earth didn't you tell me, Maritty? Why did you keep this a secret from me?"

The girl looked up with glittering wet eyes.

"Did you s'pose I wanted folks to know how low the Tyson family had fell?" said she bitterly. "Father had a farm of his own once, and he'd 'a had it now ef be hadn't underwrit for his brother and lost it all. And that's why I want to be a lady, with a house of my own—to give father a home."

Old Mr. Tyson slept in the kitchen-chamber that night, rather to his own bewilderment; but he had reached that stage of docile servility in which he accepted all things as a matter of course and understood very little about it.

Maritty told him that "it was all right," and he implicitly believed her, and troubled himself no further on the subject.

"I've a mind to let the poor old creatur' stay here," said Mrs. Popley, "there is the kitchen-chamber ain't used for nothin', and I shouldn't never feel what he eats and drinks, and he might do jobs about the barn." Mr. Popley, however, who had by this time returned, shook his head.

"Maritty's very well," said he; "but we can't keep open house for all her people. I guess Phœbe Ann, we had better let go him about his own business, and tell Maritty not to feed him at our backdoor no more. I don't quite approve of the principle."

When Miss Dorcas Jones heard of this new development she chuckled within herself.

"Ain't I glad that Maritty Tyson ain't our hired girl, but there ain't no accounting for a man's whims. And she has got a pair of handsome black eyes of her own—for them as fancies black eyes. I prefer blue for my part;" with a glance at the cherry-framed glass opposite, which reflected her own faded blue orbs with painful accuracy.

That very day, however, just on the verge of twilight, when the sweet fern thickets were distilling their pleasantest odors, and the yellow glow in the west was turning to crimson, John Henry Jones met Maritty Tyson in the high-road.

"Could you lend me your one-horse wagon," said she wistfully, "for a couple of hours to-morrow?"

"Yes," the young farmer answered, "with pleasure. Shall you want me to drive?"

"No!" the girl replied with decision. "That would cost too much; I want to go cheap."

"Oh, I shall not charge anything for the driver—or the team, either!" he said, shrugging his shoulders and smiling. "When do you want to go, Maritty?"

"I—I don't know!"

"You don't know, Maritty?" he echoed in a tone of surprise.

"Yes—and no!" retorted Maritty. "I've got to make inquiries first. I'm going to Bridgeport to get work in the factory."

"In which factory?"

"In any of them. It don't matter which. They're always glad to get hands, folks tell me."

"But you don't understand factory work."

"I can learn," she insisted. "I've father to care for now. I shan't let him go back to that place. I've got all my wages saved up, and it'll keep me until I can secure a place in the factory—me and father," she added. "And the time shall come, yet when I'll be a lady, with a house of my own, and a piano, and a carpet on the best room floor, and a cushioned rocker for father?"

John Henry surveyed her with admiring eyes.

"You're looking a long way ahead, Maritty," said he.

"Perhaps," with a shrug of the shoulders. "But every day I live is going to bring it nearer."

"You'll have to work dreadful hard to get all that!"

"I mean to work and to wait. Can I have the wagon, John Henry, at two o'clock to-morrow afternoon? I think that time will do as well as any."

"I don't believe you can, Marrity."

Her eyes flashed.

"I don't care for myself; I can walk. But there's father. No matter, though!" she cried quickly. "I'll go and see if I can get Mr. Pratt's cart."

"Stop a minute, Marritty!" said John Henry. "I ain't as quick of speech as some folks; but I'd like to discuss this 'ere matter with you a little."

"I hain't no time for discussion," said Marritty.

"Yes, you have," said John Henry, composedly.

* * * * *

Miss Dorcas was slicing up apples for a pie that evening when Marritty Tyson came in. She viewed her with unsympathetic eyes.

"So you've lost your place?" said she.

"I have left Mrs. Popley—yes," said Marritty quietly.

"And you're a fool for your pains!" declared the uncompromising spinister. "Where do you expect to get a better place?"

"Here!" said Marritty, calmly.

"Here!" echoed Miss Dorcas. "What on earth be you a-talkin' of? I don't wan't no gal. And I wouldn't hev you if I did. Come, clear out! John Henry'll be comin' directly, and——

"John Henry's here now," uttered a calm voice at the back of the irate old lady's chair. "And if anybody is to clear out, Aunt Dorcas, it must be you! Marritty is coming here for good and all. She's my wife. We were married at the parsonage half an hour ago. I've liked her this long while, but I never had courage enough to speak out my mind before. And her father's coming to-morrow. We'll fix up the corner chamber upstairs for her father, Aunt Dorcas. See, Maritty," he added with honest pride, "there's a carpet on the floor, just as you've always longed for, and here in the parlor there's the piano mother bought for poor Jenny, who died before ever she learned to play on it. And you shall be a lady, dear, with a hired girl to wait on you and your father, and there's nothing money can buy that shall be denied you. Speak up, Aunt Dorcas!" he went on, with kindling eyes and rising color. "Either welcome my wife, or leave the house! And don't be long in taking your choice, either!"

"Oh, I'm sure she's kindly welcome!" stammered Aunt Dorcas, with a spasmodic click in her throat. "Walk in, Mrs. Jones. Lay off your hat and shawl, and I'll get the tea d'rectly."

And Marritty, with her soft dark eyes fixed tenderly on her husband's face, smiled to herself.

"Me and father have got a home now," she murmured. "With a piano, a carpet and all, even down to the cushioned rocker in the corner! Just what I always dreamed of! It seemed such a long way ahead; and yet all the time it was so near!"

A Peddlers's Trick.

It is to be feared that the commercial morality of the country hawker is not yet above suspicion. These men are determined by hook or by crook to dispose of their wares, and they are masters of the art of cajolery and finesse. Scores of entertaining and authentic anecdotes might be given to bear out this statement. We subjoin a few: A vendor of cheap spectacles called on an ancient maiden lady and displayed his glittering stock. The lady remarked that she had recently purchased a pair in a neighboring town. "Do they suit you, ma'am?" "Yes, I think so." "It's a serious thing to have spectacles that don't suit; very harmful, very. I've traveled for years with glasses of all descriptions, and I've known a lot of mischief done by glasses bought permiscus like. They don't mind a bit what they sell over counters, not they; they never look to see the customer again, likely. Now, I'm on this round regular, and it stands to reason as I have to be wonderful careful. Might I have a glance at these spectacles, ma'am?" Impressed by the tone of respectful sympathy, the lady fetched them, and the hawker, with an assumption of much knowledge, turned them round and round and tested both glasses and frames. His verdict soon came: "I'm sorry, real sorry for ye, ma'am; ye've been deceived. These spectacles are really dangerous; blue steel frames o' this pattern and temper 'll be sure to injure the temples." He began to gather up his pack. "Then what do you recommend?" "Well, ma'am, 'tis a sacrifice; but, to oblige ye, I'll exchange a pair for these, if ye please; you'll be safe then." With a little more persuasion the bargain was effected. A week later the lady reappeared at the shop from whence had come the discarded pair of glasses. The new ones had proved utterly useless. She had to return, considerably poorer in pocket, if richer in experience, to these certain, in the hawker's words, "to injure her temples."—Cassell's Family Magazine.

Among the many "advantages" his house possesses, we select a few as set forth in connection with the above "bill of fare:"

On arrival, each guest will be asked how he likes the situation, and if he says the hotel ought to have been placed nearer the railroad depot, the location of the house will be immediately changed.

Corner front rooms, up only one flight, for each guest.

Bath, gas, water closet, hot and cold water, laundry, telegraph, fire alarm, restaurant, bar-room, billiard tables, daily papers, coupe, sewing machines, grand piano, a clergyman, and all other modern conveniences in every room.

Every guest will have the best seat in the Dining Hall, and the best waiter in the house.

Children welcomed, and requested to bring hoop-sticks and hawkeyes to bang the carved rosewood furniture, especially provided for that purpose, and peg tops to spin on the velvet carpets; they will be allowed to bang on the piano at all hours, fall down stairs, carry away dessert enough for a small family in their pockets at dinner, and make themselves as disagreeable as the fondest mother can desire.

Washing allowed in rooms; ladies giving the order to "put me on a flat iron," will be put on one at any hour of the day or night.

Dogs allowed in any rooms in the house, including the w(h)ine room. Gentlemen can drink, smoke, swear, chew, gamble, tell shady stories, stare at the new arrivals, or indulge in other innocent amusements common to watering places, or any other part of the hotel.

The landlord will always be happy to hear that some other hotel is "the best house in the country."

Don't snub a boy because he stutters. Demosthenes, the great orator of Greece, overcame a harsh and stammering voice.

Syke's Dog.

When Mr. Lincoln heard of the scattering of the Confederates under Hood by Gen. Thomas he was reminded of the following anecdote: "Out in Lower Illinois, in a little village, there was a boucher named Sykes, who had a large, wicked, mischievous bulldog, which was regarded as a town nuisance. Fowl were killed, clothes were pulled from the lines, meathouses were robbed, children were scared, and 'Syke's dog' was blamed for all and blamed justly. Now there was a man named Henderson, who had a fine turkey killed by the dog of Syke's, and he swore revenge. So he took about a quarter of a pound of powder and did it up in a piece of buckskin, tying up a piece of punk so that it projected out of the little bundle of powder. Then he put the bundle in a large piece of corn bread and had it in readiness. It was not long before Syke's dog trotting along, and Henderson, lighting the punk with his cigar, threw the bit of bread to the cur, who gobbled it as a mouthful. The next moment there was an explosion. The dog's head was blown over a fence into a creek, his hind legs and tail were sent up and lodged on Henderson's porch, his fore legs were thrown across the street, and the rest of the bow-wow was laid about in small pieces. 'Whorra!' exclaimed a looker on, 'you've rather used up Syke's dog, hain't ye, Henderson?' 'Yes,' replied Henderson, I rather think that as a dog Sykes won't find him of much use.' And so of the rebel army," added Mr. Lincoln, with one of his sad smiles, "as an army Hood won't find it of much use."

Signs of Ill Luck.

To be struck by lightning on Monday.

To sit on a buzz saw in motion on Friday.

To break the mirror your wife's mother gave her.

To fall down stairs with the parlor stove on Tuesday.

To speculate with other people's money and get caught.

To spill salt in the coffee of the man who has the carving knife.

To see a bill collector over your shoulder on Saturday.

To dream of snakes after drinking cider in a prohibition town.

To get wet when you fall overboard while boating on Thursday.

To see a bulldog over your left shoulder in your neighbor's orchard.

To be one of thirteen at a table when there is only food enough for six.

To call a bigger man than yourself hard names on any day in the week.

To marry on Wednesday a girl who practices with ten-pound dumb bells.

To meet a detective at the depot when you are buying a ticket to Canada.

To bet all your money on a horse whose driver has bet his money on another.

To offend your best loved girl's little brother who saw you kiss another little boy's sister.

What Noses Denote.

A new journal is to appear as the organ of the science of nozography. It is desirable that the nose should be as long as possible, being a sign of merit, power and genius. For example, Napoleon and Cæsar both had large nose. A straight nose denotes a just, serious, fine, judicious and energetic mind; the Roman nose, a propensity for adventure; and a wide nose with open nostrils is a mark of great sensuality. A cleft nose denotes benevolence—it was the nose of St. Vincent de Paul. The curved fleshy nose is a mark of domination and cruelty. Catherine de Medici and Elizabeth of England had noses of this kind. The curved, thin nose, on the contrary, is the mark of a brilliant mind, but vain and disposed to be ironical. It is the nose of a dreamer, a poet, or a critic. If the line of the nose be r'entrant—that is, if the nose is turned up—it denotes that its owner has a weak mind, sometimes coarse and generally playful, pleasant or frolicsome.

The iron plate on which is to be engraved Pittsburg's invitation to the President will be rolled until it is only 3-1000 of an inch in thickness, and can be rolled together in the form of a scroll. To roll a piece of steel so thin requires an enormous amount of work and the greatest care and skill. On the plate will be engraved the invitation already published, with the names of the Presidents of the different committees attached, the coat-of-arms of the United States, of the cities of Pittsburg and Allegheny and the new Court House.

Dey's tossin' up a twenty-dollar gold piece ter see who goes ter de bat fust. Gentlemen—A twenty-dollar gold piece? Small boy—Yes, sir; dat's the smallest coin dey't goin' ter use dis season.

All Sorts.

The man who is always finding fault must be always hunting for it, and he cannot be an agreeable companion.

Some one threw a head of cabbage at a public speaker. The latter paused for an instant, then said: "Gentlemen, I only asked for your ears; I don't for your heads."

It is said that Mr. Pullman, the famous car-builder, buys the most expensive cigars obtainable. So, no doubt, do the porters on his cars. Both can afford it—especially the porters.

People who read that the Government is to spend $120,000 in removing the bar at Sandy Hook need not suppose that it has gone into the prohibition business. On the contrary the design is to assist the schooners over the bar.

The United States Consul at San Salvador, in a report upon the imitations of American goods sold there, says that "the deadliest of all the decoctions is labeled 'Kentucky whisky.' The original is bad enough—how terrific, therefore, must be this imitation!

The Change in England.

The effect of the Gladstone victories in the Parliamentary elections that have recently taken place is heightened by the result, announced lately, of the election in Northwich division of Cheshire. This district, which went for the Liberal-Unionist by 500 majority at the late election, was contested by a most popular candidate, backed by the immense influence of the Duke of Westminster; but the Liberal-Unionst majority of the previous election was converted into a Glakstone majority of over 1,106. This, in connection with previous elections, shows that English popular opinion is coming irresistibly to the support of Mr. Gladstone; and when the general election takes place will, if he lives till then, place him in power with a strong majority. The knowledge will be likely to make Lord Salisbury hang on to office more desperately; to bring Lord Hartington into the Cabinet; and to make the two ready to accept almost any measures, that will preserve their majority. But it is only a question of time after all when the issue of home rule will secure its final and complete triumph.

He Got His Answer at Last.

"Say," he called, as he stood on the postoffice steps and beckoned to a pedestrian across the street.

The other man came over, was conducted to a seat on the window sill in the corridor.

"I was looking over my diary for 1886, to-day, and I find that on February 13 I encountered you on Woodward avenue."

"Perhaps you did."

"You asked if I thought the backbone of winter was broken. I was in a hurry, and took the query under advisement. I am very sorry that the matter slipped my mind, as I generally answer such questions inside of a month."

"And what do you want of me!"

"To apologize and to say that I am now ready to make my reply. Yes, sir, I think the backbone of winter is broken, and I shouldn't be a bit surprised if we had an early spring!"

The other got up and tried to say something, but the effort was a sad failure, and by and by he turned, walked off and went up the street and turned a corner without ever looking back.

Who can imagine the mourning in Peoria, Ill., from which city no less than eighty-five persons met their death at that terrible railroad disaster at Vermilion river. The total list of identified dead foots up to 155. All that part of the State will be draped in black; eight victims from Eureka, six from Breedsville, six from Galesburg, five from Washington, and forty from nearly as many different places. It is the most fatal wreck that has occurred in the history of railroads. Shocking as others have been, they all pale into insignificance compared with this. May it stand forever as the most appalling.

The new head of the Mormon Church is Apostle Woodruff, who has been in hiding for the past two years lest he might fall into the hands of the United States officers. The Mormon Church, or at least the polygamous branch of it, is not the strong organization that it was in the days of Brigham Young. It must be weaker than it is supposed to be when its chiefs must be recruited from among concealed fugitives from justice.

TAKE SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

Purely Vegetable.

SAFER AND BETTER

I have been subject to severe spells of Congestion of the Liver, and have been in the habit of taking from 15 to 20 grains of calomel, which generally laid me up for three or four days. Lately I have been taking Simmons Liver Regulator, which gave me relief, without any interruption to business. J. HUGG, MIDDLEPORT, O.

BILIOUSNESS The REGULATOR never falls to cure. I most cheerfully recommend it to all who suffer from Bilious Attacks or any Disease caused by a disarranged state of the Liver. W. R. BERNARD, KANSAS CITY, Mo.

INDIGESTION I suffered intensely with Full Stomach, Headache, etc. A neighbor who had taken Simmons Liver Regulator told me it was a sure cure for my trouble. The first dose I took relieved me very much, and in one week's time I was as strong and hearty as I ever was. It is the best medicine Lever took for Dyspepsia. H. G. CRENSHAW, RICHMOND, VA.

CONSTIPATION Testimony of HIRAM WARNER, Chief-Justice of Ga.: I have used Simmons Liver Regulator for Constipation of my Bowels, caused by a temporary Derangement of the Liver, for the last three or four years, and always with decided benefit.

Fire on the Ocean.

LONDON, August 19.—The Inman line steamer City of Montreal has been destroyed by fire at sea. The news of the burning was learned upon the arrival at Queenstown this morning of the British steamer York City, Captain Been, which left Baltimore August 4 for London. This steamer rescued the passengers and crew from the burning vessel and brought them to Queenstown. The destruction of the steamer City of Montreal occurred on the 11 instant, five days after she left New York. A boat, containing six passengers and seven members of the crew, is missing. The occupants of this boat are the thirteen persons reported to have perished. The steamer had 240 passengers on board.

The passengers and crew of the City of Montreal were taken off the York City by the tug Mount Etna and landed at Queenstown. All were accounted for except the thirteen persons in the missing boat. It is learned that shortly after the passengers had gone to bed on the night of the 10th inst., the ship being in latitude 43 north at the time, they were aroused by an alarm of fire.

A scene of consternation ensued and the passengers were greatly terrified when they found out the true state of affairs. The smoke caused by the fire was suffocating. The passengers dressed and got on deck as quickly as possible, and with but little appearance of panic. The fire originated in the cotton stored in the main hold. Nine streams of water were soon working on the flames, and the course of the vessel was shaped toward Newfoundland, 400 miles distant. The flames spread with great rapidity, and soon had burst out with terrific force through the mizzen and after hatches, the heat being intense.

It becoming evident that it was impossible to save the ship, a momentary panic ensued, when the captain decided to abandon the vessel, but all managed to embark in the boats, all of which but one, containing six of the crew and seven passengers, were picked up by the York City.

After everybody on board the ill-fated steamer City of Montreal had embarked in the ship's boats, the boats scattered and everyone entirely vanished. It contained two stewards, two seamen and seven passengers, and there is but little doubt that the whole boat load perished. The boat did not contain a full crew, and left the City of Montreal against the captain's orders, as there was time to take many more in it. The other survivors consider the fate of the occupants of the boat as a judgment for their cowardice.

A bark was sighted shortly after the boats left the steamer and her crew were preparing to pick up the survivors when the steamer York City, attracted by the flames from the burning vessel, which were shooting up a hundred feet in the air, bore down and with difficulty took all hands on board. The rescued people were treated with the utmost kindness by the captain of the crew of the York City, and the passengers speak with much feeling of the consideration which was accorded to them. The York City proceeded to London after landing the City of Montreal's passengers and crew at Queenstown. The survivors are unanimous in declaring that the officers and crew of the City of Montreal did their duty nobly and skillfully.

A Mystery Solved.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Miss Ada Hardy and Charles Pither from Lakeview was cleared up to-day. Matthew Noble, a friend of Pitcher, vouches for the information that the couple were married secretly in Milwaukee a couple of weeks ago and are now in Atchison, Kansas, where the young man has a good position.

ENFIELD, Ill., August 19.—Two terrible accidents occurred here this morning at the reunion of the Eighty-seventh Illinois veterans During the sham-battle a cannon was prematurely discharged, blowing off James Crockett's right arm. An instant later, a few yards distant, another cannon was discharged prematurely and stretched five bleeding victims on the ground. Gabe Sullenger had both Arms blown off and will probably die. The others injured are Robert Johnson, Irwin Reeder, William Daniels, and Emanuel Berry. They are fearfully lacerated and burned, but may survive.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 19.—At the national encampment of the Sons of Veterans to-day Gen. G. B. Abbott, of Chicago, was chosen commander-in-chief; Colonel Henry A. Frazee, of Ohio, lieutenant general; Colonel J. J. Speaker, of Missouri, general; C. B. Cook, of Dakota, colonel. Applegate, of Nebraska, and C. A. Anderson, J. L. R. Rakes and E. B. Smith, of Pennsylvania, were chosen members of the council-in-chief.

BERLIN, August 19—Emperor William is so ill that it has been arranged that the king of Saxony shall represent him at the Koenigsburg manœuvres. The official bulletin says: "The emperor caught cold during a sudden change in the weather, and that the chief symptoms of his present indisposition are occasional rheumatic pains."

WILLIAMSPORT, August 19.—The grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias closed its sessions to-day after the installation of the officers by Supreme Representative Thomas G. Sample. Applications were received from three new lodges. The next annual meeting will be held at Wilkesbarre.

WASHINGTON, August 19.—President Cleveland was to-day invited by citizens of Pensacola, Fla., to visit that place during his southern tour. The president replied that he would carefully consider the invitation but did not think he would be able to this trip.

NEW YORK, August 19.—The steamship Atlas, hence for the West Indies, returned to-day, having been in collision with and sank the schooner Lizzie Wilson. The wife and daughter of Captain Chadwick and two seamen were drowned.

WOODS HALL, Mass., Aug. 19.—Professor Spencer F. Baird, of the United States fish commission, died here to-day.

She Said Her Say at Last

A rather prepossessing young lady entered the office of a well known lawyer the other day and inquired:

"Is Mr. Brief in?"

"Won't be in for two hours," replied the dapper young clerk whom she addressed surveying her from head to foot with an approving glance. "Anything I can do for you?"

"Yes," was the reply, and the lady produced from beneath her wrap a handsomely bound volume. "I have here—"

"I thought so," interrupted the clerk with a deprecating gesture. "I sized you up as soon as you came in. But it's no use. We never fool away any money on subscription books in this office. Didn't you see the sign outside, 'No Pedlars Allowed'?"

"Sir," began the visitor, "this book—"

"Oh," laughed the flippant young clerk, "I've no doubt it's the biggest History of the United States ain't it."

"If you will allow me—"

"Really," said the youth, who was greatly amused, "I'd like to, but it's against the rules of the office to yield to blandishments of book agents no matter how young and good looking they are. Could not think of looking at the book, my dear. "Life of Napoleon," ain't it? That's a chestnut. One of our clerks bought one last week for $4, and yesterday he traded it off for a yellow dog and then killed the dog."

"I wish to say—"

"Or may be its a humorous work, with wood cuts that look as though they had been engraved with a meat axe. No, we don't want it. We keep a humorist on salary here to amuse us."

"I—"

"Say, you are awfully persistent, my dear, but it won't do any good. If old Brief was here you might talk him around because he's a susceptible old duffer and thinks every pretty young woman who looks at him is in love with him. But I am not that kind."

"Sir, if you will—"

"Say, I hate to refuse you, 'pon my soul I do, but I'm broke and that's the truth. Come around in about six months after the old man has taken me into partnership. I'll be flush then, and I'll take a book just to reward you for your stickativeness. I say, you're a mighty pretty woman to be obliged to peddle books for a living. I—"

Just then the attention of the loquacious youth was attracted for a moment by the frantic gesticulations of a fellow clerk in another part of the room and he paused.

"You are Mr. Freshleigh, I presume!" said the lady.

"I—er—yes, that is my name," was the reply.

"I have heard my husband speak of you. I am Mrs. Brief. Will you please hand this book to Mr. Brief when he comes in and ask him to take it to the binders? Good morning."

The lady left the office; the mercury in the thermometer crept down out of sight; the office cat had a fit and young Freshleigh fell in a faint.

The next day Lawyer Brief advertised for a new clerk.

A Test Case.

Smith—Say, Jones, can a man get drunk on beer?

Jones—I don't know. Let us try. Waiter, two beers.

Smith—Yum, yum! I could drink that all night. Waiter, two beers.

Jones—Of course. So could I, and be clear as a bell. Waiter, two beers.

Smith—Why, I am just beginning to get thirsty. Well, try two more. Hi, there, waiter.

Jones—Good stuff. Makes a man bright. Let's have a couple more.

Smith—All right, Jonesy, jus' you shay. Now, have some 'ith me.

Jones—No, shir; 'smy turn. I'm a gentle(hic)man, I am, and pay my share.

Smith—I shay 'smy turn. You must be drunk.

Jones—Any man says I'm (hic) drunk 'sliar. Only drank little beer. Can't get full'n beer.

Smith—Thash so, Jones. Not possible. Perfectly redic(hic)ulous.

Jones—Next fellow shays man can get drunk on beer, jus' shend him to me.

A Burglar Shot.

INDIANA, Aug. 20.—John E. Kelly, son of Postmaster Kelley, of Black Lick, 12 miles from here, shot and fatally wounded a burglar who had entered the store and postoffice early this morning. About 3 o'clock young Kelley was awakened by a noise, as of some one stumbling over something. He sleeps in the house adjoining the store in which the postoffice is kept. There have been half a dozen small burglaries in this neighborhood in the past two weeks and young Kelley at once suspected that there were robbers in the postoffice. He seized a shotgun which stood near his bed and quietly slipped into the store by the back door. He found nobody there, but there was abundant evidence that the visitors had not been gone long. The till on one side of the store had been broken into and all the small change, amounting to about $3, taken out. The burglars had evidently taken fright at the noise that had wakened Mr. Kelley and fled.

Mr Kelley was very quick in his investigations and was about to step out of the front door when a shadow crossed, followed by another, and then two men entered the store. The burglars had come back Kelley spoke to them and they sprang toward him, when he fired, emptying the entire load of shot into the foremost man's body, just below the breastbone. The men turned and fled, one of them assisting the other, and disappeared in the darkness. An hour or so later the one who had been wounded appeared at St. Clair's mills, a mile and a half from the scene of the shooting, and applied for help. He proved to be Charles Rogers, a young man well known in the neighborhood. He formerly lived at Black Lick and worked in the firebrick yard. He seemed to be in a dying condition, and a justice was sent for to take his ante-mortem statement. At last accounts he was still living, but it was not thought he would survive more than a few hours.

A Prohibition Plaint.

PHILADELPHIA, August 21.—The prohibitionists complain that the Pennsylvania railroad is discriminating against them in fixing the railway fares for delegates and others attending their state convention at Harrisburg this week. The fare they are to be charged is two cents per mile, whereas persons attending the republican convention were charged only one cent per mile. The prohibitionists protested against this charged favoritism and talk loudly of "how the railroad companies showed their policy by helping the republicans who help them." An appeal to President Roberts is contemplated upon his return.

"The facts of the case are these," is the explanation made yesterday by an official of the passenger department of the Pennsylvania railroad: "It was a matter of good business policy to reduce the fare for visitors to the republican convention to a cent a mile, because that convention brings together large numbers of people interested from all points in the state, and a lower rate brings a large enough volume of additional business to pay the difference. But the prohibition convention does not rouse so great interest and is not so largely attended. We make no discrimination against the prohibitionists, but give them the same reduction that we make to secret societies and other organizations holding general meetings.

"Two cents a mile is what we call the regular card rate for all organizations where we have the handling of a considerable number of people. For the Democratic convention which is to held at Allentown, this company has made the same rate, two cents a mile to junction points. That's all there is in it."

In the Ives Case.

NEW YORK, August 22.—The hearing before Judge Bookstaver in the court of common pleas to-day in the Henry S. Ives & Co. assignment resulted in a direction from the court that Ives & Co. must appear before a referee and disclose the whereabouts of the missing books.

Ives, Stayner and Doremus were in court early. Algernon S. Sullivan, counsel for Assignee Cromwell, and ex-Congressman Adams, who represenied Ives & Co., were also present.

Edward Lauterbach addressed the court, saying that it was expected when Ives & Co. met with their trouble either the legal firms of Sullivan & Cromwell or Hoadley, Johnston & Lauterbach would appear for them. This could not be, he said, because it would not be proper for Mr. Sullivan to appear, as his partner, Mr. Cromwell, had been selected as assignee. It was not possible for Hoadley, Johnston & Lauterbach to appear, as Governor Hoadley, the head of the firm, was a director of the Ft. Wayne and Chicago railroad, which is a creditor of the firm of Ives & Co., and he could not look after the interests of both parties.

Ex-Congressman Adams then said he had no time to prepare or even read the papers in the case. He intended to ask for a week's adjournment, but in this he was overruled by Mr. Ives, who insisted, because of the criticisms of the press, that the matter should proceed immediately.

After some argument Judge Bookstaver ordered that Ives and his partners must be examined, and it was decided to appoint ex-Judge Charles F. Daly as referee, or if he is out of town, ex-Judge Noah Davis.

Langley Can Have It.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 21.—The general impression about the Smithsonian Institution is that Professor S. P. Langley, the first assistant secretary, would be selected to succeed the late Mr. Baird. A year ago the board of regents, believing that Mr. Baird would not recover his health, suggested the appointment of a secretary, and upon the recommendation of Mr. Baird himself a tender of the place was made to Professor Langley as the best fitted from a general standpoint to discharge the duties of the position.

Professor Langley is the present observer at the Allegheny, Pa., observatory. His salary there is understood to be $10,000 a year, and there is some question as to whether he will be willing to resign this for the honor of being placed at the head of the Smithonian at a salary of one-half that amount. In the event of Professor Langley's refusal to accept the secretaryship it is regarded as not improbably that Professor G. Brown Goode, the second assistant secretary of the institution, may be elevated to that dignity. Professor Goode is at present in charge of the national museum. He has had a long training in the institution, which he entered some years ago at a nominal salary, and has been advanced through successive gradations, for merit alone, until he has reached his present prominent position.

The Governor Issues a Proclamation.

HARRISBURG, August 22.—This evening Governor Beaver issued a proclamation to the people of Pennsylvania, in which he bespeaks for the centennial celebration of the adoption of the constitution of the United States, to be held at Philadelphia on the 15th, 16th and 17th of September, the co-operation of the people, the manufacturers and citizen soldiery of the state. He says: "Delaware led us in the adoption of the constitution; New Jersey led us in proposition for this celebration; let no state lead us in the observance of the great occasion." In conclusion Governor Beaver suggests that the clergymen of the state on the Sunday preceding or following the celebration preach appropriate sermons and join in congratulations to the people and in humble and devout thanksgiving to Almighty God for the blessings of civil and religious liberty.

A New Party.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23.—The executive committee of the new political party recently organized under the name of "the American party," to-day issued an official call for a national convention to meet in this city on September 16th and 17th next, and they call upon all American citizens of whatever party or special affiliation, who sympathize with the sentiments and are in favor of the political objects of the new party to attend for the purpose of completing the organization and promoting, among others, the following specific objects. First, To emphasize and perpetuate the sentiment of America for Americans. Second, The restrictions of immigration. Third, A thorough revise of the naturalization laws. Fourth, The reserving of of American lands for American citizens only. Fifth, The protection of Americans, in all their rights on land or sea, in all parts of the world. Sixth, To restrict and guard the right of franchise. Seventh, To abolish polygamy in the United States immediately and entirely. Eighth, To enact and enforce such laws as will tend to eradicate intemperance. Ninth, to develop the resources of the country by a wise system of internal improvements. Tenth. To protect and promote the American system of free common schools. Eleventh. To adjust the relations between labor and capital, on a permanent basis of equity and justice, and especially do we invite representatives and members of the following organizations to meet and co-operate with us in said convention, viz: The Patriotic Order Sons of America; the Order of United American Mechanics; the Junior Order of United American Mechanics; the Order of Deputies; the Sons of the Revolutionary Sires; the Political Alliance; the United Minute Men; the various granges and all other orders and organizations whose principles and sentiments will enable them to work in the American party on the foregoing basis.

A Missing Squaw.

WASHINGTON, August 23.—The following telegram has been received at the war department from Major Randlett, commanding Fort Duchesne, Utah, dated August 19, through General Terry:

Colorow has his followers with him, about 150 in all, including men, women and children. There are no indications of his being reinforced. All the Indians at Uintah and Quray want peace. I believe Colorow would come to the reservation if he could get there without being attacked. Most of the party who went out with Mr. Andrews have returned to the agency, frightened back. They claim that Colorow's camp could not be found. Fear of citizens kept them from search. Great anxiety is manifested concerning Chepita. If the cowboys have harmed her I anticipate it will end in serious trouble. I say to the Indians that I hope she is with Colorow or maybe is a prisoner at Glenwood Springs. Wish the latter could be found."

This is the first time the name Chepita has been mentioned in any of the reports from the scene of the reported Indian troubles. Although nothing is known of her here it is presumed at the war department that she is either a relative of Colorow or the daughter of some Ute chief.

The meagre information contained in dispatches from Fort Duchesne is all of an official nature that the military authorities have to guide them. The reports of an engagement between Colorow and the Sheriff's posse do not, in the opinion of the war department officials, warrant the use of troops to suppress the supposed outbreak. As soon as the Indians are attacked by troops they will not only defend themselves, but will at once attack settlements and settlers, and in order to avoid an Indian war the assistance of troops will be withheld until it is necessary for the protection of citizens and every effort will be made to induce the Indians to return quietly to their reservation. From the character of the information received the military authorities are inclined to the belief that the state authorities did not exercise the best judgment, and were too precipitate in their attempt to serve a civil process on the indicted Indians. It is hoped, however that all troubles may be suppressed without bloodshed.

The State Prohibitionists.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 23.—The prohibition state convention will meet in this city to-morrow morning. There are not more than 150 delegates is the city to-night. At the meeting of the state committee this evening more than $1600 was raised to meet the deficiencies of the last campaign. There is little gossip to-night either as to the composition of the platform or the men to be placed on nomination. There are more than a dozen women among the delegates. It is probable that the convention will not adjourn before Thursday. Charles S. Wolf, the prohibition candidate for governor, will probably be made permanent chairman of the convention. S. B. Chase, of Easton, and James Black, of Lancaster, are mentioned in connection with the nomination for supreme judge. R. R. Carson and A. A. Zinn, of Philadelphia, Captain D. C. Irish, of New Castle, and O. C. Freed, of Montgomery county, have been mentioned as possible candidates for state treasurer.

A Train Ditched.

PITTSBURG, August 23.—The second section of Cincinnati express bound west on the Pan Handle road jumped the track near Shelly's station this afternoon and was precipitated over an embankment into the creek. The train was composed entirely of mail and express cars and was badly wrecked. Engineer George Thompson was terribly scalded and will die. George Moreland, baggage master, of Columbus, Ohio, received painful cuts about the head and body and Fireman James McCullough, of Uhrichsville, Ohio, was badly burned. George Norvin, express messenger, was slightly injured. The cause of the accident is not known. All trains were delayed several hours, but the tracks are now cleared.

Briefs.

PHILADELPHIA, August 23.—Several of the local assemblies representing Reading railroad employes held a meeting at Port Richmond to-night, but nothing of any consequence transpired beyond the passage of a resolution thanking the Public Ledger for an editorial in this morning's issue favorable to them. The committee representing the men will meet the Reading officials some time during this week, but it is hardly likely that a conference will take place before the latter part of the week, as no definite time has been fixed.

OIL CITY, August 21.—Mrs. Ella Dinsmore, who has been on trial at Clarion for aiding and abetting David King in the murder of Joseph C. Davis, an oil operator, at her home in St. Petersburg, was yesterday found guilty of murder in the first degree. She was indicted as being an accessory before the fact, and the verdict carries with it the death penalty. The evidence was purely circumstantial. Mrs. Dinsmore bore up bravely and showed little signs of emotion.

NEWPORT, R. I., August 21.—Two apprentice boys deserted from the training ship New Hampshire and stole a large cat boat in which to make their escape. They succeeded in reaching Narragansett pier, but went a shore on the rocks in trying to make a landing. The boys swam ashore where they were taken into custody by an officer and were to-day returned to the ship. The boys will be discharged from the ship and dealt with by the police authorities.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 23.—Governor Washington Bartlett, who has been in a precarious condition for some time, was stricken with paralysis last night, and little hope of his recovery is entertained. Governor Bartlett is a democrat and was elected to office last November. In the event of his death he will be succeeded by Lieutenant Governor R. W. Watermann, who is a republican.

RICHMOND, Aug. 21.—A special from Raleigh, N. C., says a colored man charged with trying to assault a young lady near Dunn, in that state, was pursued by a party of friends of the young lady and finally captured. They subsequently escorted him to the Black river and drowned him. His body has been found. This is a new departure of Judge Lynch.

MARION, Ind., Aug. 21.—Word has just been received here announcing a peculiar tragedy in the southwestern part of this county, eighteen miles from here Some time last night Mrs. Newton Lightfoot, wife of a farmer, arose and walked in her sleep. Her movements attracted the attention of her son, Frank Lightfoot, who mistaking her for a burglar, shot and killed her.

HAZELTON, Aug. 21.—Yesterday James Mullin and John Brandt, miners, were instantly killed at the Tresckow Stripping. Mullin was working under a derrick when the large bucket, filled with dirt, fell upon him and crushed in his head. Brandt lost his life by the caving of a dirt bank, which completely covered him, smothering him and crushing his body.

LANCASTER, August 21.—Texas fever has broken out among the cattle in several sections of the county. It was introduced by animals purchased for winter fattening. In a herd at East Lampoter township three out of eight are dying. Of another head of eight, two are dead and the other sick, and several other cases of the disease are reported.

LOWELL, Mass., August 21.—Bradford Burrill, the man who shot Ellen Kerrigan, on Thursday night, because she had refused further companship with him, committed suicide at the jail on Saturday night by tearing up the sheets in his cell and hanging himself on a spike in the wall. The Kerrigan woman is able to be about and will recover.

DAVENPORT, Ia., August 21.—A peculiar tragedy occurred yesterday. August Warmbold, an old and well-known citizen, drove to the city cemetery this morning with his wife, and, when near the grave of their daughter, committed suicide by shooting himself. Excessive grief is supposed to have caused the deed.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 23.—An explosion of natural gas in a ditch at Monroeville, Pa., this afternoon, instantly killed one man and seriously burned two others. The men were repairing a joint in the main pipe, and the gas ignited from a lamp. The workmen were Italians, and their names were not known.

FROSTBURG, Md., August 21.—Mrs. Spencer Davidson, of Baltimore, was thrown from her carriage and killed last night. She was visiting her brother, P. L. Burnell, vice president and superintendent of the Cumberland and Pennsylvania railroad, who resides at Mount Savage, Md.

LEBANON, Pa., August 21.—Last evening Hiram Balshare, aged 11, deliberately and without cause, shot Jimmie Wilson, aged 5, causing his death this morning. Balshare says he didn't know his revolver was loaded. The boys were playing and the affair happened in the street.

LONDON, August 21.—The murderer Lipski, who is to be hanged to-morrow, made a full confession. His story shows that robbery was not the principal motive for the crime.

ATLANTIC CITY, August 21.—Dr. N. A. Archer, professor of hygiene in the University of Pennsylvania, was drowned while surf bathing at Longport to-day.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

will open its next regular session on Wednesday, Sept. 7th.

MISS JULIA REED,

so well known as an accomplished Christian lady, and as a successful teacher, will preside as lady-principal, over the Young Ladies Department.

MISS EMMA HUGHES

will take charge of the Primary School in the upper room of the north wing, and also superintend the Calisthenic exercises.

MR. JAMES R. HUGHES

will continue as teacher in Latin, Greek, French and Drawing.

THE MALE SCHOOL ROOM

will be conducted and the Mathematical branches and Book-keeping taught as formerly by the Principal.

With this corps of teachers pupils can be well prepared for any college, or for a business life, or for any position of usefulness in society. dawtf

—Hoover & Goss' store at Hannah was broken into on Sunday night by unknown persons who helped themselves liberally to overalls and shirts. They were probably frightened away by young Mr. Goss who came down the road playing a mouth organ. Had it not been this interruption to their operations they would doubtless have ransacked Uncle Sam's post-office department, which is kept in connection with the same store.

—Jay Dee Barnes, who is Grand Master of Records of the Knights of the Golden Eagle, informs us that the Grand Castle officers are in correspondence with F. P. Blair, of this place; Reilly Pratt, J. L. Rich, J. T. Barton, Howard E. Holdzworth and Henry Kephart, of Unionville, and W. J. Myers, of Pine Grove Mills, with the view of establishing branches of the order in the places named. We trust they may be successful.

—A son of Mr. William Garbrick, of Coleville, fell on Monday and broke his arm. He was carrying his father's dinner to him, walking on the railroad. He slipped and fell in such a manner as to produce the above result.

A Healthy Stomach

Is a blessing for which thousands of our dyspeptic countrymen and women sigh in vain, and to obtain which swallow much medicine unavailingly. For no ailment—probably—are there so many alleged remedies as for dyspepsia. The man of humbug is constantly glutted with the dollars and dimes of those who resort to one nostrum after another in the vain hope of obtaining relief, at least, from this vexatious and obstinate malady. Experience indicates Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a means of eradicating dyspepsia, in which a firm reliance can be placed. No remedy has in three decades and over established such a reputation, none has received such unqualified professional sanction. It is an admirable invigorant, because it enriches the blood, and not only this, but it thoroughly regulates the bowels, kidneys and bladder. The nervous symptoms are usually relieved by the medicine.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

For Adults,
For Children,
For Both Sexes.

W. O. Tuggle, LaGrange, Ga., writing about Darby's Prophylactic Fluid, says: "It is a priceless jewel as a disinfectant and deoderizer. My wife states for the benefit of young mothers that it is a valuable adjunct to the nursery." It is equally so to parents travelling with children. Not only is the Fluid invaluable as a deodorizer, but a few drops added to the water in bathing will remove all eruptions from the skin, chafing, etc., and greatly refresh and soothe.

—Unionville can boast of something very few towns of its size contain. That is a first-class and good looking feminine paper hanger. She labors only for love and not for money.

Do not be induced to take some other preparation when you call for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Be sure to get Hood's, which is peculiar.

The Pennsylvania State Fair.

The Thirty-third Annual Exhibition of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society will open upon the grounds of the Society in Philadelphia, on Monday, September 5th, and will continue for two weeks, closing on Saturday, September 17th. The circumstances under which the State Fair will be held this year are more than usually favorable and no effort or money will be spared to make this exhibition far exceed anything that has ever before been seen in the State of Pennsylvania. The annual exhibitions of the Society have always been widely and well-known, and have each year brought thousands of people to Philadelphia to attend them, but it is safe to say that the exhibition which is now being arranged will be of wider range and greater interest than those of past years.

The grounds of the Society are conveniently located in Philadelphia, just at the crossing of the Pennsylvania and Philadelphia and Reading Railroads, both of which have stations at the gates of the grounds, furnishing easy access to the exhibition both from the country and from the centre of the city. A tract of 30 acres of land is included in the grounds, giving ample room for thousands of visitors besides the commodious buildings of the Society. The exhibition buildings themselves are substantial structures, roofed with iron, containing 240,000 square feet of floor space for exhibits, and cost over $100,000. Excellent accommodations are provided for the exhibition of horses, cattle, swine, sheep, and fowls, and the best of facilities for transportation are offered by the two railroads, which deliver live stock or merchandise at the grounds, and by Adams Express Company, which has an office on the grounds.

Every inducement is offered to intending exhibitors of any class of stock, agricultural implements and machinery, or general merchandise, and premiums aggregating over $30,000 are offered for competition. There is no limit placed upon exhibitors as exhibits may be entered from any State. The premium list is arranged upon a basis of great liberality, and offers substantial remuneration to meritorious exhibitors.

In addition to the interesting and very extensive exhibition, there will be no lack of amusement provided upon the grounds without additional cost to visitors. There is a fine race-track upon the grounds, which is now being enlarged to one-half mile. The races themselves will form one of the central attractions of the State Fair this year, as the liberal purses which are offered will undoubtedly secure the entry of many well-known horses. There will also be all kinds of fancy races, such as bicycle and tricycle races, &c.

The best band of music that can be secured will be constantly on the grounds, and will furnish an abundance of good music. Visitors can be well and cheaply served with refreshments on the grounds, and every provision will be made for their comfort.

All the railroad lines reaching the city will carry passengers to and from the grounds at greatly reduced rates, and excursion trains will probably be run from all important points in Pennsylvania. Those who are planning to visit the great Constitutional Centennial Celebration will do well to so arrange their trip as to enable them to devote a day or two to the State Fair before the Celebration.

D. W. Seller, Secretary of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society, has opened his office at No. 10 South Broad Street, Philadelphia, where intending exhibitors can secure any desired information.

Another Inducement for Rich Men to go West.

The following extract is from the Stockton (Cal.) Mail:

When an Eastern man arrives in Los Angeles and deposits his wealth in one of the local banks, the bank president claps on his plug hat and frantically hunts up a real estate speculator with the information, "There's a new sucker in town. Got $25,000. Go for him!"

It occurs to us that more than one of Bellefonte's citizens, with some money, has gone to that same notable city, Los Angeles, and more are going. We have even heard of some buying land. We trust, however, that none of them have been made victims of such combinations as the average bank president and real estate speculator compose. We say to those who have gone, those on the way and those will go—be careful.

How About Salt Lake City?

We have at hand a circular containing a glowing description of Salt Lake City and vicinity on one side of it and a letter on the other requesting us to give the city a free puff. We are well pleased to do so, and would do so more readily were it not for the prevalence of that dread blight, Mormonism, in that place. We hope it is not a scheme to attract people there to induce them to become Mormons. We had always heard that Salt Lake City was located in a charming locality; indeed, the loveliness of the location and the fine climate are what induced the Mormons to stop there. But this circular, which purports to have been issued by the Chamber of Commerce, in all probability, has nothing to do with Mormonism. It is intended to attract people to that city as the best place in the United States in which to locate. The climate is said to be superior to that of Los Angeles, Cal. The average temperature is about 74. In Iron county, Utah, there are inexhaustible quantities of iron; everything of value can be cultivated in the rich soil; stock raising, stone quarrying, silver mining are all available and profitable occupations, in that favorite locality. In regard to railroad facilities, it is unexcelled, with promise of great improvement. It is truly a garden spot, and we urge upon all who intend to settle in the West to give Salt Lake City and vicinity their careful attention.

In Court.

Monday morning President Judge Furst with his associates, Hon. Daniel Rhoads and Hon. Chester Munson, presided over the court. The most important proceeding was the calling of the constables to the bar and giving them instructions in regard to their duty under the new high license act. He said it is their duty to return the names of all who sell intoxicants, whether licensed or not. Several other minute directions were given in regard to their business.

Commonwealth vs. Frank Davis. Prosecutor, James Ross. Costs paid and case settled.

Commonwealth vs. Benjamin Comley and Rachael Comley for maintaining a nuisance. Jury called and sworn who returned a verdict of not guilty; county to pay costs.

Commonwealth vs. Warren Hoover and Mary M. Hoover, assault and battery. Nolle pros entered as to Mary M. Hoover. Guilty as to Warren Hoover. Sentence $10 fine and costs.

Commonwealth vs. Thomas C. Weaver, indecent assault. Sentenced to pay costs.

Commonwealth vs. Frank Mortre, assault and threats. Sentenced to pay costs.

Commonwealth vs. Samuel Long, selling liquor without license. Plead guilty.

Commonwealth vs. John Adams. Sentenced to pay costs and to remain 10 days in jail. This man was arrested for being a tramp. The excitement attending the Culvey murder and the highway robberies led to his arrest. When examined in court he gave several names.

Cases settled are Commonwealth vs. Frank Campbell, surety of the peace.

Same vs. Frank Hunter, John Bathurst and Joseph Fisher, drunkenness.

Same vs. Anna Washington, assault and battery.

In the case of Commonwealth vs. Jno. T. Cooney defendant plead guilty, but has not yet been sentenced.

Commonwealth vs. John A. Lehr came on Tuesday afternoon for trial and ended this morning, though the jury has not yet rendered a verdict. Lehr is a Philipsburg police officer and he was tried for assault and battery.

In the of Commonwealth vs. C. H. Yeakel, of Mifflintown, for forgery, defendant plead guilty and made an elaborate statement to the court which largely exculpates him from blame.

Commonwealth vs. Irvin Gray, larceny. Defendant plead guilty.

The grand jury have found true bills against William Hannigh for f. & b.; Jno. Beezer, attempted arson and Mrs. Haas, violation of the liquor law. The prosecution against W. R. Poorman for indecent assault, ignored, and Anna Irvin, prosecutrix, to pay costs.

—The scene presented by the spirited festivities in progress in the Court House yard, on Saturday evening, was quite enchanting. Beneath the over-arching green tree tops the light from eight or nine electric jets shed its radiance, rendering the dark of a moonless night as bright as noon-day and much more agreeable. The space was a moving panorama of humanity seeking for a place at the tables, waiting for refreshments or partaking of the really excellent ice cream and cake, whilst between each spoonful the plaintive voice of the lemonade man rang out in the air or the Zion band rendered a selection. Over the front gate of the yard was the word "welcome" and the hundreds who surged in and lingered, loth to leave, showed their appreciation of the motto and the occasion. The affair was brought to a close by all the refreshments being disposed of. We did not get down town in time to see the parade, in which we understand the Logans and the Coronets participated and made a handsome appearance.

Improved Order of Red Men.

The Great Chiefs of the State of the Improved Order of Red Men are desirous to reestablish the order in this place, and any member of Tribe No. 199, which surrendered its charter several years ago, desiring information, can receive the same by addressing T. D. Tanner, Easton, Pa., the Great Senior Sagamore of the State. The order is at present enjoying wonderful success. The increase of membership for the past year throughout the United States will reach over 20,000.

—Rev. P. Anstadt, of York, Pa., who preached in the Lutheran church here last Sunday, and Rev. Jno. Palmer, of Fayette, a former pastor of the Bellefonte A. M. E. church, are delegates to the Prohibition State Convention in Harrisburg. Rev. Palmer was one of the State nominees last year, but he failed to receive enough votes to elect him.

—The "jubilee of liberty" to be held in Philadelphia on September 15, 16 and 17 will be the greatest event that has ever transpired in that city, with the exception of the Centennial celebration in 1876. It will be the celebration of the adoption of the constitution. The Pennsylvania Railroad will sell excursion tickets to that city beginning September 13 and continuing until the 20th. The excursion rate will be the same as one full fare ticket.

Car Cinders.

Fifty thousand soldiers guard the railroad when the Czar travels. But even this great army cannot keep off the train boy.

The difference in cost to the railroad between 1,000 signs reading "Look out for the Locomotive," and the same number reading: "Danger!" is $600, and it has been found that the latter is more effective.

A New York dudine accompanied by a pug applied at the ticket office of a country railroad station.

"Am I required to purchase a dog ticket?" she asked.

"Oh, no, you can travel as an ordinary passenger."

A ticket collector combats the cruel hallucination that the coming generation of his countrymen will be puny, sickly or played out. His experience of many years convinces him that the contrary is the case, and that the average child of "under twelve," who travels with a half-fare ticket, is as large as a boy or girl of fifteen or sixteen in ante-railway days.

—We copy the following from a recent issue of the Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Courier: "Professor S. W. Christie has arrived in this city, accompanied by his family, and has already taken charge of one of the departments of instruction at Eastman College. President Gaines has exercised rare good judgment in calling to his assistance one so thoroughly competent to instruct in every branch of business education, and patrons of the school will hardly appreciate the advantages to be derived from this addition he has made to the faculty."

Great Bicycle Meet in Williamsport.

Next Saturday, the 27th, there will be an important bicycle meeting in Williamsport. It is expected that hundreds of wheelmen will be present from all parts of the State. Among the experts will be Wilhelm, of Reading, and John Brooks, of Blossburg. The latter will race with a horse. All wheelmen are invited to participate and a good time is expected. We are told that there will be excursion rates on all the railroads.

An old farmer in Readfield had a rough family of boys many years ago. One day, when he had some company in the fore room, a tremendous uproar was heard in the kitchen. It was evident a fearful row was in progress. A boy broke into the room crying, "Father, Jim is killing Bill!" The old man waved him blandly away with his hands saying: "Let the lambs play! Let the lambs play!"

"My dear," said an anxious wife to her husband, who was running for office, "we must economize in every possible way." "I do economize," he replied. "Yes," she said bitterly, "you spend ten or fifteen dollars a day in treating a lot of barroom loafers to beer and whiskey, just to get them to vote for you. Do you call that economy?" "Certainly; that's political economy."

Dr. Gale on Diseases of the Kidneys.

Dr. Gale observes in his treatise on disease that the great use of wine in France is supposed to have abated the prevalence of the gravel.

In some parts of the country where Speer's Port Grape Wine is principally used, not only the gout, but the gravel is scarcely known. Dr. La Pota relates as an extraordinary instance of the effects of Speer's Port Wine on gout, the cure of Dr. Daveran, who was attacked with it at the age of twenty-five, and had it severely till he was upwards of fifty, with chalk stones in the joints of his hands and feet, but for four years preceeding the time when his case had been given to Dr. La Pota to lay before the public had by advice used Speer's Port Grape Wine, and had no return of the gout afterwards.—London Post.

New York is a doubtful state, the Democrats having carried it sixteen times and the Republicans fourteen times in the past thirty-two elections. Twice there was a mixed result. To make everything even, it should be carried by the Republicans this year and next.

—Daylight is now one hour and forty minutes shorter than it was on the 21st of June—then days were 14 hours and 50 minutes long; now they are only 13 hours and 10 minutes.

IN BRIEF, AND TO THE POINT

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle Seventy-five cents.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

We give below an extract from the New York Exchange Review. Our readers have in the past two years become somewhat familiar with the name of Hiram Torrey, in the capacity of corresponding editor of the Bellefonte Republican. That he is a man of great literary ability they have learned from his writings and will no doubt read with interest what a journal in his own city has to say about him: Hiram Torrey, real estate, etc., No. 132 West Twenty-third Street.—One of the most prominent of the real estate offices in the up-town section of the city is the one known as Gardner's Bureau, and which is conducted by Mr. Hiram Torrey at No. 132 West Twenty-third Street. It was established in 1881, and from the date of its commencement has pursued a career of uninterrupted success, and now stands in the front rank. All departments of the business are carried on, including buying, selling, renting and exchanging of all classes of property, in city and country, the effecting of insurance, obtaining loans on bond and mortgage, drawing up deeds and leases, etc., etc., and every other detail belonging to the profession. A special and important feature of this office is the lists of first-class boarding-houses and furnished rooms which are always on file here, and embrace the very best and most desirable in the city. These lists are constantly under revision, being thus maintained at the highest possible standard of correctness, and are at all times open for the use of applicants without charge. This novel and useful system has been much approved of, and is always in great request. At this bureau is always to be found an extensive list of all sorts of properties, and either those wishing to buy or lease can obtain just the kind of house or other property they need, the assistance and experience of Mr. Torrey and his efficient clerks being ever available in the work of selection. Personally, Mr. Torrey is a native of Ohio, and of great ability in business and professional affairs. In addition to his labors in the real estate field, he also pursues the arduous avocation of an editor, and is at the head of more than one important publication. He founded the Merchant in Philadelphia in 1855, which obtained a circulation of over 60,000. In 1858 he established the Iowa Farmer at Des Moines, which was likewise a great success. At the present time he is editorial correspondent of the Bellefonte Republican, of Pennsylvania, and of the Telephone of Philadelphia, and contributes both poetry and prose writings to many popular journals. He is an earnest and convincing writer, and in high repute, both in literary, commercial and social circles, and warmly esteemed by all.

Outsiders frequently wonder where the railroads obtain proper return for some of the ingenious but costly methods adopted in advertising their lines. One of the latest to attract our attention is a nicely bound 64-page book entitled, "What to do," containing description and the correct rules of a larger number of games suitable for parlor or lawn, which has been issued by the Passenger Department of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, and will, we understand, be forwarded postpaid upon receipt of 8 cents by C. H. Warren, General Passenger Agent, at St. Paul. It is a book that would ornament almost any table and interest both old and young.

Being very busy we have failed to notice the Fountain of York, Pa., for the last two months. It is a charming magazine and worthy an extended notice—much more than we have space to allow. We think it should be in every Pennsylvania home—not only because it is a home enterprise and published in the interior of the state, but also on account of its great merit. There are ten numbers issued in a year. Vol. 5 will open with the September number. It is sold at 10 cents a number; per year, $1.00—and the price is remarkably low. Send 10 cents for a sample number, or get a news agent to send for it.

Endorsed by the M. D's.

A. M. Robinson, Druggist and Apothecary, Bangor, Me., in a letter dated July 1, 1884, says:—"I have had many prescriptions for Gilmore's Aromatic Wine from one of our best physicians, who learned of its virtues from those who had used it." No remedy ever produced has met with such marked favor from the medical profession. The Company cheerfully furnish any physician a sample of their Aromatic Wine, and not one of the many hundreds who have given it an examination has ever failed to endorse it as a valuable remedy.—All over the country leading physicians are prescribing it, particularly for the numerous ailments to which females are liable. They know there is no purer, safer, or more reliable remedy.

"I guess I'll have a vegetable dinner," said a clerical-looking individual to the waiter of a popular Boston restaurant the other day. A "vegetable" repast it was for it consisted of six ears of green corn and three plates of sliced cucumbers, topped off with two thick slices of watermelon.

A Reliable Port Wine.

Mr. A. Speer, of New Jersey, whose Port Grape Wine has such a wide reputation, and which physicians prescribe so generally, was the first in this country to import Port Wine Grape vines from the banks of the River Doura, in Portugal, where the finest old time ports were made and to plant vineyards of them in New Jersey. His Port, Burgundy and Claret which are now the best wine to be had, have become a great favorite among the most fashionable New York, Philadelphia and Washington society.

Salt Rheum

The agonies of those who suffer from severe salt rheum are indescribable. The cleansing, healing, purifying influences of Hood's Sarsaparilla are unequalled by any other medicine.

"I take pleasure in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla, for it has done wonders for me. I had salt rheum very severely, affecting me over nearly my entire body. Only those who have suffered from this disease in its worst form can imagine the extent of my affliction. I tried many medicines, but failed to receive behefit until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla. Then the disease began to subside, the disappeared, and now I am entirely free from the disease. My blood seems to be thoroughly purified, and my general health is greatly benefited." Lyman Allen, Sexton N. E. Church, North Chicago, Ill.

"My son had salt rheum on his hands and the calves of his legs, so bad that they would crack open and bleed. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B. Stanton, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

From 108 to 135

"I was seriously troubled with salt rheum for three years, and receiving no benefit from medical treatment I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am now entirely cured of salt rheum; my weight has increased from 108 lbs. to 135." Mrs. Alice Smith, Stamford, Conn.

If you suffer from salt rheum, or any blood disease, try Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has cured many others, and will cure you.

Proceedings of the Convention.

HARRISBURG, August 17.—The Republican state convention was called to order at 10.25 this morning by Chairman Cooper and Secretary Leach called the roll of the delegates. Hon. C. L. Magee nominated Hon. Walter Lyon for temporary chairman, and Mr. Lyon was elected by acclamation. He was escorted to the chair by Judge Jessup, of Lackawanna, and when introduced received a round of applause.

Hon. James Biery, of the executive committee of the Republican state committee, made a report on a new plan for nominating congressional and senatorial candidates, the gist of which is contained in the following resolution which was referred to the committee on platform:

Resolved, That in the nomination of candidates for congress and for the state senate the conferee system ought to be abolished throughout the state and the nominations make by the people at the primary elections, or when that is deemed practicable, by district conventions composed of delegates elected by the people at the same time when delegates are elected to their respective county conventions, representation to be founded on a fair and equitable basis, but each election district to have at least one delegate.

The convention met at 12:30, and immediately it was called to order, David H. Lane, chairman of the committee on organization, made report, designating Adjutant General D. H. Hastings as permanent chairman and the usual number of vice presidents and secretaries.

The report was received with applause and adopted. General Hastings was escorted to the platform by David H. Lane and Hon. G. W. Delamater. In his speech the general predicted that, after the nominations, the republicans would advance to the skirmish line of the great battle of 1888, and November's victory would notify other states that Pennsylvania was not satisfied with the present national administration. "Five years ago," said he, "the democratic party by fortuitous circumstances and against the true intent and honest desire of the sovereigns of the commonwealth came in power in Pennsylvania. Last fall the republican party came home again by the largest majority ever given a gubernatorial candidate. In 1884, by a system of shameless fraud, 38 electoral votes from southern states were counted for a man who was never entitled to them, and the product of that fraud was the restoration of the democratic party to power for the first time since it sought, by armed rebellion, to strike from the heaven the flag of the whole nation. I predict that next year the people of the whole country, following the lead of Pennsylvania, will right the wrong, and that the old party will come home again to stay, and that the voice of the majority will again be respected as the sovereign law of the land."

Continuing the criticism of Cleveland, Hastings said: "They (the supporters of Blaine) have not forgotten his panderings to a disloyal sentiment to secure the votes of a solid south in the election of next year. They have not forgotten the arrogant language of his vetoes of almost every pension bill presented to him. When the sovereign State of New York, intending deserved distinction to the veteran soldier, passed a law punishing the fraudulent wearing of that badge of American loyalty—the metal star of the Grand Army of the Republic—Cleveland's veto, as governor, was an insult to every loyal American citizen. On last Memorial day . . . where was the president of the United States? He had gone fishing and nobody was enough interested in him to care whether he caught any fish or not. There was a latent, deep-seated patriotic sentiment throughout the country that developed and grew into a storm of indignation, its thunder reverberated from one end of the land to the other.

"It was heard at Washington, its thunders reverberated from one end of the land to the other. It was heard at Washington, and cowardly hands quailed before it, and the trophies captured in honorable warfare remained undisturbed. Pennsylvania has no use for such a president. Pennsylvania will see to it that their part will be done toward placing the battle flags in other and safer hands than Grover Cleveland."

State Senator Thompson, of this county, nominated William B. Hart for state treasurer and Representative Robinson, of Delaware, announced the withdrawal of the gallant Grimeson. Hart was then nominated by acclamation.

Simon Gratz, of Philadelphia, named Judge Mitchell for supreme judge and was seconded by a delegate from the same county.

Hon. Jerome B. Niles then nominated Judge Henry W. Williams, of Tioga county, Colonel William A. Stone seconded the nomination of Williams, saying that Allegheny county had come down here for Judge Stowe, but recognizing the unmistakable will of the convention, the fitness of Judge Williams and the claims of the northern tier, doing nothing by halves, would give her unanimous support of Judge Williams.

Edwards, of Schuylkill, nominated Judge D. B. Green, of Pottsville, and the roll was called on the only ballot of the convention.

The ballot resulted as follows:

Williams	148
Mitchell	56

The announcement was received with applause, which was increased when Mr. Leeds, of Philadelphia, seconded by Mr. Losch, moved to make the nomination of Judge Williams unanimous, which was agreed to.

Hon. Andrew C. Robertson, of Allegheny, chairman of the committee on resolutions, reported.

Jumped the Track.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Of all the railroad accidents that have occurred on the "Y" of the Baltimore and Ohio, that of this morning was by far the most complete. The limited express No. 4, due from Chicago and Cincinnati at 6.20 a. m., having two sleepers, two day coaches, two baggage cars and one mail car attached to the engine, ran away from the engineer at Gales woods. The air brake broke and the train came thundering along at a fearful rate of speed. Just before the "Y" was reached the engine jumped the track, carrying the train with it. The tower, which was a four-story building, was cut from its foundations as if by a razor.

The engineer, Hamilton Brosius, of Baltimore, was scalded to death. He was taken into Mrs. Ellen Dent's house, 832 Delaware avenue, corner of U street, where he died on the floor two hours afterwards. The fireman, named Smith, jumped from the engine and his legs were broken. He is not expected to live. Will Baxter, the operator employed in the tower, saw the train and saved himself by jumping out of the window and catching in a tree near by. Joe Healy, a boy employed in the tower, was seriously hurt.

The news of the disaster spread through the city with great rapidity, and thousands hastened to the scene of the accident. It was almost the exact spot where the fatal accident of the summer of 1884 occurred. When the crowd reached the scene the train lay stretched like a wounded snake, extending from First street northwest to Delaware avenue. The engine lay completely overturned, a smashed out of all semblance to a locomotive. The tender was but a mass of iron bolts and bars. Fences, sheds and everything in its track were swept away before its irresistible rush of the iron monster.

Mrs. Ellen Dent, in whose house the engineer died, says: "Mr. Brosius presented a pitiful sight. He was scalded from his head to his feet. His face was like a lobster and his eyes! I never saw the like before. He lived two hours. I am glad he was a single man." A man who was in the house said he had been railroading for the last thirty years and had been in many accidents, but never never before in his life had he witnessed such a complete wreck.

An Elevator's Descent.

NEW YORK, August 18.—The falling of an elevator in G. Sidenberg & Co.'s building on Mercer street, this morning, resulted in the death of one woman, the injuring fatally of a man and slight injuries to about a dozen girls.

At a quarter before 8 o'clock John O'Neill, the elevator boy, loaded the elevator to take a number of operators to the upper floors. About eighteen female hands got aboard. When the elevator got to the third floor it began to descend. All O'Neill's efforts to stop the car were unavailing, the safety catches failing to work. The car increased its speed and crashed to the basement. Several of the passengers in the meantime had fainted.

One woman, Mrs. Jane Lynch, aged 55 years, was killed. Her body was frightfully mangled.

John O'Neill, the elevator boy, sustained a fracture of the spine. He will die.

Following are the names of those who received serious injuries:

Lizzie Dougherty, Brooklyn, had her leg broken.

Mrs. Jessie Bryers, of Green Point, ankle broken.

Mary Ring severely hurt about the body.

Maggie Moriarity, Mary O'Shaughnessy, Gussie and Fannie Van Tassel, Nettie Peck, Virgey Daly, Amelia Lichtenstein and Nellie McCabe, all of New York, were slightly injured, and are suffering more less from the shock.

The elevator is one of Otis Brothers' make and was inspected a week ago and pronounced all right. The accident was due to breaking of the pinion wheel which controls the drum upon which the cable winds.

The Pardon Board.

HARRISBURG, August 18.—An extra session of the board of pardons was held this afternoon. George W. Reinhard, of Centre county, libel, was granted a pardon. The following cases were held under advisement: Lemuel McLain, Allegheny, murder in the second degree; Samuel Johnson, Delaware, murder in the first degree; Edward Sanders, Lancaster, murder in the second degree; John L. Cox, Northumberland, manslaughter.

LANCASTER, August 19.—The jury in the case of Alexander Leibsley, on trial for the murder of George Pontz, by stabbing, in this city in March last, returned a verdict this evening of murder in the second degree.

ROBERT NEILSON Gen'l Supt.

Off the Track.

PITTSBURG, Pa., August 18.—The No. 8 Chicago express was sent out from Chicago at 3.15 o'clock yesterday made up as follows: Engine and tender, one mail car, two baggage and express cars, one smoker, one passenger car and two Chicago sleepers. The run to Mansfield, O., was made as usual, where a stop was made, and the Pullman sleeper "Tropic," No. 261, M. A. Rutenber, of Pullman, Ill., conductor, and O. Warner, colored, of No. 268½ Center avenue, Pittsburgh, porter, was attached to the train, being the rear sleeper. At Alliance, O., the train was met with the intelligence that a freight wreck had occurred at Franklin Hills, a small station a few miles east of Alliance. Instructions were received by Conductor John Bacon to proceed to Rochester by the Cleveland and Pittsburgh tracks which form a loop from Alliance to Rochester. The train started at a few minutes before 4 o'clock this morning. Bayard, a town 12 miles from Alliance and 81 from Pittsburgh was reached and the train struck a curve just east of Bayard at the rate of 30 miles an hour.

The whole train except the sleeper Tropic had passed by a huge pile of ties and lumber on one side of the track, when with no warning of any kind the rails spread. With a crash the sleeper took the ties and ran about 75 feet, when the coupling connecting it to the forward sleeper broke with a snap and the car turned over on its side on the roadbed and by the force of its momentum sliding along the ground some distance. When it stopped it was a complete wreck. It was riddled from one end to the other, the matresses, bed clothing, and splintered wood were piled in a mass at the rear end, and its three passengers mixed up in the confusion.

The following is a list of the killed and injured:

O. Warren, porter of the sleeper Tropic, instantly killed and mangled beyond recognition.

W. H. Denniston, superintendent of the East End gas company, of this city, badly bruised about the breast and limbs and arms strained by the force of the accident. He was able, however, to finish the journey to Pittsburg.

J. L. Maloney, of Detroit, Mich., badly cut about the head, face and arms, and internally injured, his injuries being, it is feared, fatal. Is at the hotel in Bayard. He is a Detroit, Mich., business man.

George D. Lawson, of Washington, D. C., badly cut about the face, head, and breast and lower limbers. Was unconscious when taken out of the wreck and was taken immediately to the hotel. Nothing could be learned of his business or relatives.

The Company Escapes.

CHATSWORTH, Ill., Aug. 18.—The coroner's jury agreed on a verdict this morning, which holds Timothy Coughlin, foreman of section seven, to the grand jury and negatively exonerates the company. The management is not censured for running double-header, for a lax system of track inspection, or for anything else. The verdict simply says that the failure to patrol the track for six hours before the train came and the habit of burning grass close to the track is a subject of criticism. The three or four friends of the road on the jury had better staying qualities than the two or three who wanted to fix a portion of the blame on the management.

Timothy Coughlin, the section foreman, was promptly arrested and will be taken to Pontiac, the county seat of Livingston county, at once. He says he cannot give bail and will go to jail. He insists that the verdict is unjust and that he went over his entire section as ordered, and that no fires were built as near the bridge as Seald and Taggert testified. The jury made out a separate verdict for each of the victims.

Made Nominations.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., August 19.—In the united labor convention to-day the old platform of the Clarendon hall meeting last year was taken as the ground work of a new platform and enlarged to suit the necessities of the state campaign. A few of the planks of the platform of the old greenback labor party were also used. One of the principal of these favored the establishment of postal banks and a postal telegraph system. After a very spirited debate it was decided to not openly oppose the socialist organization, but as a compromise a plank was used opposing state and public control of any subject which is not a matter of public concern. A full state ticket was put in nomination, as follows: For secretary of state, Henry George; for comptroller, Victor A. Wilder; for state treasurer, B. H. Cummings; for attorney general, Dennis C. Feely; for state engineer and surveyor, Sylvanus Swet, of Broome.

AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION Proposed to the citizens of this Commonwealth for their approval or rejection by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Published by order of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in pursuance of Article XVIII of the Constitution.

Joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution of the commonwealth:

SECTION 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following is proposed as an amendment of the constitution of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof:

AMENDMENT.

Strike out from section one of article eight, the four qualifications for voters which reads as follows:

"If twenty-two years of age or upwards, he shall have paid, within two years, a state or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least two months, and paid at least one month before the election," so that the section which reads as follows:

"Every male citizen, twenty-one years of age, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all elections:

First. He shall have been a citizen of the United States at least one month.

Second. He shall have resided in the state one year (or if, having previously been a qualified elector or native born citizen of the state, he shall have removed therefrom and returned, then six months) immediately preceding the election.

Third. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least two months immediately preceding the election.

Fourth. If twenty two years of age or upwards, he shall have paid, within two years, a state or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least two months, and paid at least one month before the election,' shall be amended, so as to read as follows:

Every male citizen twenty-one years of age, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at the polling place of the election district of which he shall at the time be a resident and not elsewhere:

First. He shall have been a citizen of the United States at least thirty days.

Second. He shall have resided in the state one year (or if, having previously been a qualified elector or native born citizen of the state, he shall have removed therefrom and returned, then six months) immediately preceding the election.

Third. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least thirty days immediately preceding the election. The legislature, at the session thereof, next after the adoption of this section, shall, and from time to time thereafter may, enact laws to properly enforce this provision.

Fourth. Every male citizen of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a citizen for thirty days and an inhabitant of this state one year next preceding an election, except at municipal elections, and for the last thirty days a resident of the election district in which he may offer his vote, shall be entitled to vote at such election in the election district of which he shall at the time be a resident and not elsewhere for all officers that now are or hereafter may be elected by the people: Provided, That in time of war no elector in the actual military service of the State or of the United States, in the army or navy thereof, shall be deprived of his vote by reason of his absence from such election district, and the legislature shall have power to provide the manner in which and the time and place at which such absent electors may vote, and for the return and canvass of their votes in the election district in which they respectively reside.

Fifth. For the purpose of voting, no person shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence or absence while employed in the service of the United States or the State, nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of the State or of the high seas, nor while a student of any college or seminary of learning, nor while kept at any almshouse or public institution, except the inmates of any home for disabled and indigent soldiers, who, for the purpose of voting, shall be deemed to reside in the election district where said home is located. Laws shall be made for ascertaining, by proper proofs, the citizens who shall be entitled to the right of suffrage hereby established.

SECTION 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment is proposed to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the Eighteenth Article thereof:

AMENDMENT

There shall be an additional article to said Constitution to be designated as article XIX, as follows:

ARTICLE XIX

The manufacture, sale, or keeping for sale of intoxicating liquor, to be used as a beverage, is hereby prohibited, and any violation of this prohibition shall be a misdemeanor, punishable as shall be provided by law.

The manufacture, sale, or keeping for sale of intoxicating liquor for other purposes than as a beverage may be allowed in such manner only as may be prescribed by law. The General Assembly shall, at the first session succeeding the adoption of this article of the Constitution, enact laws with adequate penalties for its enforcement.

PICNIC PLEAURES.

THE EXCURSION OF THE PRESBYTERIANS TO HUNTER'S GROVE.

There was a great variety of exercises at the Presbyterian picnic on Friday which had not been very confidently anticipated. The copious descent of rain made the occasion one to be remembered for several weeks, and we trust will cause no evil effects. If no one feels the worse for the drenching the remembrance of the ridiculous situations which it caused will linger only amusingly in the mind.

To begin, however, with the first assembling of the picnicers, young and old—they were sufficient in number to fill the one passenger coach, the baggage car and three open cars, packed quite tightly. The morning was lovely and promising and the journey to the picnic grounds was a complete success. The grove was duly admired and four swings were put up, which were in demand most of the day. There were also a few hammocks which afforded delightful resting places.

Among the amusements indulged in by young men and boys was a "tug of war," in which about one hundred engaged. It was lively and animated and to-day the skin worn from as many pairs of hands shows how earnestly the contestants tugged at the long rope to test the strength of the respective sides. Foot ball afforded another lively diversion, and the players found it entertaining. Spectators were also pleased except in one or two instances when the large sphere came too near to be agreeable.

At noon dinner was served. The tempting refreshments were spread on a long table and distributed to the hundreds of children and young people who sat around in groups. Sandwiches, cold chicken, lamb, ham, dried beef and other cold meats, pickles, light biscuits, all conceivable varieties of cakes, lemonade, cider, coffee, and numerous other dainties partaken of by those whose appetites were sharpened by the inspiring occasion gave additional zest to the feast in the grove. Francis Speer told Miss Harper that it was a "bonanza." That's about the time he was trying to eat a chicken bone.

Now, comes the disagreeable part of the day. Without warning, a drenching shower began. It seemed like a cloud burst or water spout. Before people could look for a place of shelter they were drenched. The drops were as thick as the spray which rises from Niagara Falls. Children cried and ran; everybody looked for a place of refuge. Some crawled under the tables or under the baskets or wrapped themselves in table clothes. The farm houses in the vicinity were reached by a few, but they would not contain all. The church was not opened until the worst of the shower was over and then the half-drowned people thronged into it. There the Rev. James P. Hughes made an address exhorting the boys to behave themselves with reverence and decorum while in so sacred a place. Mr. Lee Woodcock entertained the company with a few selections on the organ and Mrs. Orbison and a band of very fine vocalists sang numerous airs in an exceedingly sweet manner. Thus, the time was as agreeably spent as the circumstances would permit. After the worst of the shower was ended Rev. James P. Hughes, assisted by others, built a huge fire, which enabled the half-drowned people to dry their clothes.

A few of the younger children returned home at once in hacks, but the larger portion of the picnicers were compelled to awaite the return of the train to Bellefonte.

Mr. DeSilva, had the misfortune to fall from a hammock and it was feared that his shoulder was dislocated, which we hope may not be the case.

There was no other accident, and, as we stated above, if bad colds were not contracted the day may be considered enjoyable and profitable one.

The Episcopal Picnic.

St. John Protestant Episcopal church and Sunday-school were favored with a bright and pleasant day for their picnic on Wednesday at Snow Shoe Intersection. The members of the congregation were generous in their donations of money and provisions—there being double the quantity of edibles that could by any possibility be consumed. James Harris & Co., Garman & Son, Mr. Monroe Armor and one or two others have the thanks of the picnicers for the donation of useful articles and the gentleman who paid the railroad fare for all the pupils is also kindly remembered.

There are two swings on the picnic ground which were kept in motion all day. Croquet and base ball elicited the attention of devotees of those amusements, while one of the old-fashioned ring games was in progress for a while. So lavish was the supply of edibles that feasting was continued from 12 o'clock m. through all the afternoon. In addition to those who went in the train, a half dozen carriage loads of people visited the grounds during the course of the day. All present seemed to find the occasion very enjoyable, and there was no accident to interfere with the pleasure.

—There was a wedding at 7.30 o'clock Thursday morning in the Roman Catholic church, Rev. P. McArdle, the pastor of the church, officiating. The contracting parties were Miss Julia Powers and Mr. M. Conley. The groom holds a responsible position in the employ of the Collins Brothers. The bride is one of Bellefonte's most charming young ladies—the daughter of Mrs. Mary Powers.

Green-Jackson.

As our readers have already been notified, Mr. Calvin Green, the excellent colored barber, was wedded on Wednesday of last week to Miss Jessie Jackson, of Huntingdon, the ceremony occurring in the latter place. Only a few relatives and friends were present. The happy couple arrived in Bellefonte on the evening train and held a reception at the groom's residence. The table, we are told, was elaborately decorated with fruits and flowers, and of course the large number of people of this place who were in attendance enjoyed the occasion immensely. Mr. and Mrs. Green were made recipients of numerous congratulations. A list of the presents received, with the names of their donors, is as follows:

Mrs. Mary Johnson—two china cups, two saucers and two plates.

Mrs. Margaret Powell—majolica fruit dish and glass cake dish.

Mr. and Mrs. George Freeman—set china tureens.

Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald—majolica fruit dish.

Miss Emma Green—a dozen majolica desert dishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mayhew—large glass lamp.

Rev. J. J. Norris and wife—linen table cloth.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Green—tea pot and cream pitcher.

Miss Adalene Lawson—two fruit plates.

Washington Johnson—majolica butter dish.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Jackson—glass water pitcher.

Mrs. Sarah Wilson—majolica water pitcher.

Miss Kate Miller—cut glass fruit dish.

William Green and wife—half-dozen plates.

Wm. E. Green—two majolica pickle dishes.

Miss Helen Mills and brother—glass tea set.

Miss Hattie Thomas—half dozen napkins.

Mr. Fortney Hilton—cut glass cake dish.

—Oh, the flowers which are blossoming in some yards defy the capacity of language to tell their beauty. No where and for no one, however, do they seem to blossom more freely than for Mrs. Laughlin and her daughters of Lamb street. It just seems as if any of those ladies have only to put a plant in the ground and it at once begins to blossom as if its life depended on the number and beauty of the blossoms it can produce. Up on Curtin street, we notice, that the flowers in Miss Emily Natt's yard evince rare taste in their selection and culture. On Howard street Mrs. Hutchinson's yard is bright in the color of its floral collection.

—John Culvey, father of Isaiah Culvey, who was arrested on the very slight suspicion of being concerned in the murder of his son and his son's wife, has been released. When we first heard of his arrest we considered it exceedingly absurd and understand that the only evidence that could in any way connect him with the crime is the allegation that he was fishing in that vicinity on Saturday night. So far as we are able to judge, the man who gives his name as William Bennon and who is now in jail in Lewisburg is more likely than any other who has been arrested thus far to be the real criminal.

—Rev. Frederick E. Crever, a superannuated minister of the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Methodist church, fell and broke his neck at his home in Shrewsburg, Pa., on Wednesday afternoon of last week. He was building a platform around a new pump at the barn, when his feet slipped and he fell. His head struck the curb wall of the well, with the result already announced. He had been laboring in the M. E. ministry since 1853 and was, when in full possession of mental and physical powers, a man of marked ability.

—Miss Annie Keith and Miss Annie McAffrey, who were driving on Wednesday in the vicinity of Coleville, narrowly escaped a very serious accident. Just as the engine on the Buffalo Run railroad was approaching, the lad who manipulated the reins for them was about to drive on the track. He managed to check the horse in time. Miss Keith leaped from the convevance and the only reason Miss McAffrey didn't follow suit is because she couldn't. It is said that she screamed, however.

Bitten by a Dog.

Johnny Bell, a little son of Mr. Bell, who is the superintendent at Valentines' furnace, was bitten by a dog on Thursday. The wound is quite a bad one and is on one of his wrists. The dog, which belonged to a colored man living in town, was shot.

—There is no room for Dr. McGlynn and Henry George in America.—Centre Hall Times. Nevertheless, they are here and occupy about as much room as the two editors of the Times, and events seem to prove that they have a larger following. Now, what will Ulrich and Smith do about it?

Reception for the Candidate.

Judge Henry W. Williams, who was nominated by the Republican State Convention, on Wednesday, for the position of Supreme Judge of Pennsylvania, was in Bellefonte all of last week, presiding over a special term of court then in session. The occasion of his presence at the home Judge A. O. Furst, on Wednesday evening, was taken advantage of by the citizens of the town who called on him in large numbers, extending their congratulations and enjoying his interesting and brilliant conversation. The occasion was entirely non-political, the callers including prominent members of all political affiliations as well as those who seldom give politics a thought, but who admire the Judge and who were glad of the opportunity to meet one so distinguished in the walks of judicial life—who is to honor, we hope for many years, the highest judicial position in the State.

President Judge Furst's residence is well arranged for an affair of the kind. The front porch is so very spacious as to afford room for many guests who desired to linger outside to enjoy the refreshing evening air. Within the house the brilliantly lighted apartments were attractive and beautiful. Judge Williams, despite the severe mental labors of the day, seemed peculiarly bright and buoyant and delighted all who met him. He is a gentleman of mature years and in the prime of his powers. There is every indication of intellectual strength and a physical endurance equal to the taxing labors of the position to which he will be elevated. While his conversation is so uniformly bright and cheerful, there is a repose and quietness in his manner which gives assurance of reserve power. Hair and beard, which are silvered, lend additional dignity to his appearance. We are assured by legal gentlemen that his judicial experience and acquirements are such as to fit him admirably for supreme judge. Judge Williams has lived for many years—perhaps all his life—in Tioga county—a county which, by the way, has given many eminent men to the State.

A Queer Mistake.

The S. and B. at Williamsport remarks that very queer blunders occur occasionally. Mr. Albert G. Snook, a clerk in Ulman Brothers' clothing store, Market square, Tuesday of this week received a telegram stating that his father, Mr. Jacob Snook, was dead. His father and mother went to Dewart on a vacation last Monday a week ago, his mother returning home last Friday, and when young Snook received the telegram he went home and broke the sad news to his mother and sister, and of course there was a sorrowing family. Crape was placed on the front door at the residence, corner Fourth and Mulberry streets, and the son left for Dewart at 6.20 Tuesday night to make suitable arrangements for bringing his dead father home. When he reached Dewart judge of his surprise when the first person he saw was his father, alive and well. The puzzled young man returned to the city, had the crape removed, and learned that the telegraph office had made a mistake, the telegram being intended for another family of the same name living here. The joy of the mother and sister on learning the mistake can be better imagined than described. Mr. Snook is still at Dewart enjoying his vacation.

Letter List.

Following is a complete list of the letters remaining uncalled for in the post-office at Bellefonte, Centre county, Penn'a, August 15, 1887:

Wm. R. Bell, Wm. Climer, John Dougherty, Patrick Flynn, Isaac Garber, John McCarty, Mrs. Maggie Moyer, Thomas Minany, Derris Morgan, Jessie D. Marshall, Mrs. Rebecca Parker, Mrs. Rebecca Robb, Mrs. George Swartz, John Simons, Miss Annie Wetzler, Miss Annie Wooden.

Persons inquiring for letters named in the above list will please say advertised.

JAS. H. DOBBINS, P. M.

—Last year when there was a rebellion in the Democratic party a new newspaper was started by the kickers. It is the Centre Hall Times. This year there is another rebellion and consequently another paper should be started. The faster Democratic papers multiply the sooner will the Republicans achieve a victory, as usually every new paper represents a new faction of a party.

No Withdrawal.

The report circulated in some parts of the county that I have withdrawn from the contest for one of the nominations for county commissioner on the Republican ticket, is false.

I am still in the field and if nominated will use all honorable means to be elected.

AUSTIN CURTIN.

Roland, Pa., Aug. 17, 1887.

Teachers Elected.

The school board of Milesburg on Thursday evening chose the following teachers for the schools during the ensuing year: Grammar school, T. M. Gramley, of Rebersburg; 2d grade, Miss Stella Shope; 3d grade, Miss Lide Taylor.

—A through freight train on the Bald Eagle road was wrecked early Saturday a. m at Curtin station, four freight cars running off the track. The construction cars were kept busy until 10 o'clock this morning in repairing damages. This is the first wreck which has occurred on the Bald Eagle for some time. We hope the care which has been exerted over the road will be continued so as to avert all accidents.

The Philipsburg Telephone Line Completed.

The new telephone line between Philipsburg and Bellefonte was completed on Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock and next morning we had the pleasure of talking on it to Miss Dom, the lady who manipulates the apparatus in Philipsburg. Her voice sounded as clear and distinct as a silver bell, and sounds must have passed over the wire from this end with even more distinctness, as she remarked that she thought she could hear thunder, which must have been the reverberations and echoes of Friday night's storm, as there was no thunder this morning.

The new line is a great improvement and will save a distance of twenty miles to all who desire to speak to people in that lively town. It will be a convenience for everybody on the telephone line all the way from Lock Haven to this place who may desire to speak to Philipsburg.

A Bellefonte Teacher Highly Honored.

Mr. James R. Hughes, who is a graduate of Princeton College, has been, during the past school year, an instructor in the Bellefonte Academy, of which his father, Rev. James Hughes, is the Principal. His superior merits as a teacher are apparently recognized at one of the most important educational centres in this country, as has just been given practical proof in an invitation received by him to become an assistant teacher in Princeton Preparatory School, an institution under the control of his alma mater, Princeton College. He did not ask for the position—indeed, he did not know it was vacant—and the offer of the position was as much of a surprise as it was a source of gratification to him. We are much pleased to learn that he has concluded to remain at the Academy for the present, in the capacity of an instructor.

—Edison, the wizard electrician, has devised another scheme which will create a revolution in the existing order f things generally. His plan is to utilize the surplus energy of the coal used in heating dwellings for lighting purposes. He says it can be done and there is enough surplus energy in every household's heating fuel to make all the light they need. In some way with the use of a generator he will change the "surplus energy" into electricity which will illuminate. This will do away with all the establishments that now manufacture illuminants; it will diminish the sale of matches at least one-half. Each family need only purchase their own generator and then they can supply their own light. Verily, this is a wonderful age.

IN BRIEF, AND TO THE POINT

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

—According to our calculation, the time for the picnic of the Veteran Club of Centre county will be Saturday, the 10th day of September. It used to be held on the 17th (which was the day the battle of South Mountain was fought, in 1862), but Major Benner tells us that in 1877 the by-laws were amended so as to read—"The Veteran Club of Centre county will hold its annual picnic on the Saturday falling on or immediately preceding the 12th day of September each year." The time will be arranged by the Executive Committee. The place of meeting will be at Coburn, where there is a good grove. Hon. James P. Coburn and Major VanValin are making arrangements to give the veterans a most earnest and cordial reception.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetation remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after testing its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human sufferings, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this receipt, in German, French or English, with full direction for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y. 1911yeow

A Case of Deafness Cured.

Office of Shaw & Baldwin's Wholesale Notion House, Toledo, O., Dec. 11, '79.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.—Dear Sirs: About three months ago, noticing a letter addressed to you in the Bee from Gen. Slevin, in reference to the cure of his son by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure, we were induced to commence the use of it for our daughter Nellie now fourteen years old, who has been suffering from catarrh for about eight years, during which time she has been treated by one of the best physicians in the city. We have also tried the use of almost all the known remedies for catarrh, with no more success than temporary relief. Many nights have we laid awake to hold her mouth open to keep her from strangling. Her hearing had also become affected. We were afraid that she would never recover. We have now used six bottles of HALL'S CATARRH CURE, and we believe Nellie to be entirely cured. In a few days after commencing the use of it we noticed a decided change for the better, and from that right along she has improved, until now she breathes as easily as any one. She sleeps well and her hearing is perfectly good. We feel that the disease is entirely removed. We write this unsolicited letter, feeling that it is due you, and with the hope that others may be benefitted in like manner. We can hardly realize that such a change could be effected in so short a time after battling with the disease so long. We are still using the remedy at intervals, as it seems to build up her system. You are at liberty to use this in any manner you see proper. We are yours, truly,

MR. and MRS. S. BALDWIN,

—George Shively, ex-sheriff of Juniata county, died in Mifflintown at 5 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, of cramp, after but a few hours' illness. He was a prominent independent democrat, and was a leader of that faction of the democracy. In 1882 he was elected sheriff on a fusion ticket composed of independent democrats and republicans. He was born in Collams, Chester county, where his father still resides. He was an honest official, upright citizen and his death is universally lamented. He was aged about 48 years.

Dr. Gale on Diseases of the Kidneys.

Dr. Gale observes in his treatise on disease that the great use of wine in France is supposed to have abated the prevalence of the gravel.

In some parts of the country where Speer's Port Grape Wine is principally used, not only the gout, but the gravel is scarcely known. Dr. La Pota relates as an extraordinary instance of the effects of Speer's Port Wine on gout, the cure of Dr. Daveran, who was attacked with it at the age of twenty-five, and had it severely till he was upwards of fifty, with chalk stones in the joints of his hands and feet, but for four years preceeding the time when his case had been given to Dr. La Pota to lay before the public had by advice used Speer's Port Grape Wine, and had no return of the gout afterwards.—London Post.

Death of an Eminent Citizen.

EX-JUDGE ADAM HOY DIES AT HIS RESIDENCE IN THIS PLACE.

There was a sombre badge of crape on the residence of Ex-Judge Adam Hoy Tuesday. Another hung in heavy folds from the door of his legal office. They tell of the grief, the woe, the desolation of a loving and otherwise happy family because of the death of the head of the household. Ex-Judge Adam Hoy died at half-past 12 o'clock that morning of diabetes. It is not strange if the hours that follow perhaps for days to come seem like the blackest night to the family who looked up to and loved and honored so excellent a husband and father. None but they who have experienced such an affliction can measure the depth of their woe; happy if through the heavy cloud they can see the glorious glinting of the silver lining.

Judge Hoy was born in Spring township, this county, on the 6th of September, 1827—thus lacking only two weeks of being 60 years old. He was a grandson of George Hoy, of Miles township, and a son of Albert and Magdala Hoy. It is related in the history of this county published some time ago that Judge Hoy began attending school when only four years of age, his first instructor being George Padget, who taught in this vicinity during sixty years and thus gave many of our citizens their first lessons. Schoolmaster Padget taught mainly in Buffalo and Penns Valleys, and when the youthful Adam Hoy first went to him was presiding over the Swartz school house in Spring township, in the Eckenrode place. In 1851-52 he attended the Mifflinburg Academy, and from there went to Airy View, near Perryville, to the Academy kept by David Wilson. In the fall of 1854 he entered the Sophomore class in Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, and graduated in 1856.

Mr. Hoy read law with the distinguished Hon. Hugh N. McAllister deceased, and on the 27th of April, 1858, was admitted to practice. Upon the invitation of the late Judge J. T. Hale Mr. Hoy occupied a room in his law office, and became to a great degree associated with Mr. Hale in the latter's extensive business. Mr. Hoy's legal success was quickly established and he has for years been known as one of the most learned, able and faithful members of the legal fraternity in this county. His eminence and worth were recognized by his appointment to be President Judge of the court when Judge John H. Orvis resigned that position. He was, later, a contestant for the position before the people, A. O. Furst, Esq., being chosen. The deceased was a Democrat politically and was a prominent member of the Presbyterian church. He was one of the most universally esteemed citizens of this community.

On December 26, 1865, he was married to Miss Louisa M., daughter of James D. Harris, who survives him. He leaves a large family of children to mourn his death.

Meeting of the Bar Association.

Announcement of the death of Hon. Adam Hoy was made in court Tuesday morning by Ex-Judge Orvis, who said: "May it please the court: I have been requested by the members of the bar to make the painful announcement of the death of your immediate predecessor, Hon. Adam Hoy, who died at his residence in this town, this morning at one o'clock, and in view of this fact, your Honor, I move that the court, in respect to the memory of Judge Hoy, do now adjourn, and that immediately upon the adjournment of this court there be a meeting of the Bar Association of this county and the members of this court to take such action commemorative of the life of our deceased brother as they may deem proper, on this occasion."

By the Court:

"Announcement has been made of the death of Judge Hoy, my immediate predecessor on the Bench, who died this morning at 1 o'clock. Out of respect for his memory we direct the Courts now in session do adjourn till 2 o'clock, p. m., and immediately upon adjournment the Bar Association of this county will meet."

James H. Rankin, Esq.—

I have been requested to call the Bar to order and I would further move that Judge Orvis preside over the meeting of the Bar Association about to be held. The motion duly seconded was adopted, and Judge Orvis took his position of President of the meeting.

On motion, duly seconded, the Prothonotary acted as Secretary of the meeting.

On motion, it was resolved that a committee of five be appointed with Hon. John B. Linn as chairman and to include at least two members of the Huntingdon County Bar, to prepare a minute to be put upon the record of this court of the life, character and services of the late Judge Hoy. Whereupon the chair appointed upon that committee Hon. John B. Linn, chairman, D. S. Keller, Esq., and J. Calvin Myers, Esq., of the Centre County Bar, and Hon. John M. Bailey and George B. Orlady, Esq., of the Huntingdon County Bar, as members.

On motion of His Honor Judge Furst, it was resolved to invite the bars of Huntingdon, Clinton and Clearfield counties to attend the funeral in a body on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A committee of arrangements was appointed, consisting of D. F. Fortney, Adj't Gen'l Hastings and John G. Love, Esq., to wait upon the friends of the deceased and make such announcements as by them are deemed necessary to do honor to the remains of one who had held the important places of trust and position as were filled by our late brother.

On motion of John G. Love Esq., the meeting adjourned to meet on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock.

The president of the meeting announced that the meeting at that time would be a public meeting and the public is, especially, invited to be present.

About the Visitors in Unionville.

The charming village of Unionville has been quite lively of late because of the numerous visitors from a distance who have been and are being entertained by her kind people. Mr. Budd Greist shows hospitality to a goodly number of them. His brother, Joe, with the latter's pleasant wife and very agreeable daughter from New Castle, Pa., have been there several weeks. Mr. Greist came to this part of the country in search of health and apparently he has found it, and he now boasts of a gain of from 15 to 20 pounds avoirdupois during his stay in Unionville. The Misses Hensbey, Alice and Myra, daughters of Rev. Hensbey, of Girardsville, Schuylkill county, Pa., have also been spending some time at the same place. They departed, however, on Tuesday morning, on the 9.10 train east, on their way to Cumberland, where they will spend a few days and then proceed homeward. We were surprised when we saw the sisters in the train here at Bellefonte, on Tuesday morning. They did not look as if they had cried at all; though they surely must have done so, for they had such a pleasant time at their cousin's that it would be impossible to leave them without shedding a few tears. But we are glad they did not cry enough to spoil their eyes. We hear that the other members of this congenial company will start westward about the last of this week, leaving the family very lonely in comparison with its condition of liveliness during the summer. We hope they may have many future reunions equally enjoyable.

One More Arrest for the Culvey Murder.

On Saturday W. J. Westbrook, chief of police of Lock Haven, and George Vernes, chief of Renovo, arrested a man named Shaffer, on the Coudersport road six miles from Pike's mills in Potter county, on the charge of being the murderer of the Culveys. Shaffer lives in Lock Haven and is a member of a good family. It is said that certain questionable actions of which he was recently guilty led to suspicion being fastened upon him. His movements were carefully watched. When he left Lock Haven he was immediately pursued by the officers and arrested, as stated above, making his way through the mountains from North Bend. When found he was at a lumber camp where he had begged something to eat. It is said he was much confused when the officers confronted him and turned pale. On his person were found two silver watches, though neither of them has been identified as the one taken from the Culveys. The officers express the belief that they have the right man this time. He was brought down the Pine Creek railroad Saturday evening, taken to Lock Haven and lodged in jail. A gentleman who has conversed with the officers who have been on Shaffer's track and who arrested him, says that they seem confident of their ability to produce evidence which will convict their prisoner of the atrocious crime.

Twelve Hours.

Rev. Mr. Kline, of Allentown, Pa., aided Rev. J. O. Davis in the morning service in the Episcopal church on Sunday, delivering the sermon. It was based upon a text which we have not often heard preached from, and the interpretation he gave the passage proved exceedingly interesting. He read from St. John 11:9,10—"Are there not twelve hours in the day? If any man walk in the day he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of the world. But if a man walk in the night, he stumbleth, because there is no light in him." The "twelve hours," appearing in the connection in which they do, he assumed to represent one's life. In the age in which the words were spoken the hours varied in length according to the time between the rising and setting of the sun. Christians are those who walk in the light. They have their appointed time to do their work. If they continue faithful in the discharge of duty their night will not come until their day is done and their "twelve hours" have been completed. No evil power can hasten their night of death, while nothing can prevent that night from coming at the appointed time. This should inspire each one to do his duty faithfully—perhaps to encounter the greatest dangers—even as their Divine Master continued his journey to Jerusalem, despite the danger which menaced him there.

—This town was never before more crowded during court week than at present. There were instances on Monday and Tuesday nights that men had to sleep three in a bed. When the New Garman House is opened there will be plenty of room for any emergency.

BARTRUFF'S FAIRY GIG.

THE SIMPLE BUT VALUABLE INVEVTION OF A BELLEFONTE GENIUS.

At Bartruff's carriage manufactory is a little conveyance which will at once attract the attention of all horsemen and people who are compelled to travel at all. Having seen it, they will at once fall in love with it. It is an evidence of the ingenuity and inventive powers of Mr. John Bartruff, and is the acme of convenience and comfort in two wheeled vehicles. The one in the yard is of light-colored wood, but of course it can be built in any way to suit the purchaser's taste. While it is as light as a feather of that size would be, it is strong and substantial, and is totally without the defects which have always characterized two-wheeled vehicles. For instance, it cannot be upset; its strong springs have all the excellent qualities of the four-wheeled vehicles—and in this Mr. Bartruff, the inventor, displayed his ingenuity. Instead of the spring being attached to the axle, it is what we believe is called a thorough brace spring and rests upon the shafts, extending quite a distance in front and equally far in the rear. The shafts are riveted to the axle. Thus this cart can be drawn over any road and will be as comfortable as a four-wheeled carriage. The seat of the one on display will accommodate two persons. Under the top of the seat is a place which will contain small articles. In brief, it is complete, and Mr. Bartruff says that such a conveyance can be built and sold for $40 at a profit. He has applied for a patent, and it seems to us that there are hundreds of thousands of dollars in it for him. He has received offers to go to other places to manufacture it. But we hope he will remain here, as the excellence and novelty of the cart will create a demand for it all over the world. He calls it "Bartruff's Fairy Gig."

The Culvey Murderers.

The opinion seems to be widely entertained that "Bone" Johnson, one of the Klines and Luther Shaffer are the men who know most about the murder of the Culveys, and perhaps they were the perpetrators of it.

The circumstances attending the arrest of Shaffer, his actions and the articles found on his person implicate him most seriously. He is a rather fine looking man, 22 or 23 years of age, and is respectably connected in Lock Haven. He is now clean shaven, but looks as if he had recently removed a heavy beard from his face. He is the man who was seen near this place some time ago, at which time he wore side whiskers. Of late he has been considered a tough customer. After leaving here he went north traveling toward York State, until arrested last Saturday by Chiefs Westbrook and Vernes.

When at North Bend Shaffer went to a hotel kept by a man named Cleveland (not the President) where he pawned a siver watch. This time piece has been recovered and is believed to have belonged to the murdered Culveys. When arrested he showed all the evidence of guilt.

The three men named protested their innocence. "Bone" Johnson's actions in jail do not seem quite natural. He is affecting religion just now and spends his time in singing and praying, being assisted by the Klines. We have not heard whether Shaffer has tried this dodge or not.

RUMORS DENIED.

Shaffer has not confessed.

Neither did he shoot either Chief Westbrook or Sheriff May. At least, neither of those officers have said anything about it.

If there are any other rumors, send them along and we will deny them.

DEVELOPMENTS ON TUESDAY.

Very important developments were made on Tuesday afternoon in the case of Shaffer. The officials who had seen him in that neighborhood at the time of the murder and also certain witnesses, including Miss Reese, who was assaulted, and a boy who was near by, were taken to the jail and all of them identify Shaffer as the individual they had seen. Thus, a closely-spun web of circumstantial evidence is being wove around Shaffer. A formal hearing of his case will be had on the 30th inst.

The National Guard will Attend.

It is now a settled fact that the entire division of the National Guard of Pennsylvania will participate in the parade on Military Day during the celebration of the Constitutional Centennial, at Philadelphia, next month. The following order has been issued:

"For the purpose of making arrangements for the participation of the Division in the Constitutional Centennial celebration in Philadelphia in September next, the several Brigade and Regimental Quartermasters will assemble at Broad Station, Pennsylvania Railroad, Philadelphia, in the office of W. J. Latta, Chairman Transportation Committee, at 10 a. m., on Tuesday, August 30, next. Detailed arrangements for the transportation of the troops to and from Philadelphia will then and there be made, and also for quartering and subsisting them while in Philadelphia."

—On motion of Clement Dale, Esq., W. S. Fairman, Esq., of Punxsutawney, Jefferson county, has been admitted to practice law in this county. He is a member of the Jefferson county bar.

Personal Pencilings.

Colonel A. Wilson Norris and wife are now at Cresson.

Mrs. Stuart Pierce and child arrived in town on the 9.32 a. m. mail Friday.

Mr. Isenhart, of Shamokin, now owns and operates the Spring Mills creamery.

Miss Mame McQuistion, of our town, is a guest at C. D. Runkle's home in Centre Hall.

Mr. John Bullock, is still absent at the sea shore, where he has spent the past two weeks.

Mrs. Ed. Legacy, of Renovo, is a guest at the home of her uncle, Mr. Mert Cunningham.

Mr. Benjamin Schroyer, of Harrisburg, is at present spending a few vacation days in town.

Miss Laura Strohm, of Centre Hall, has gone to admire one of Nature's greatest wonders—Niagara Falls.

Capt George M. Boal of Centre Hall has been selected a member of the Republican State Committee.

Miss Carrie Kunkel, of Harrisburg, is again the guest of Miss Mary, daughter of Rev. W. H. H. Snyder.

Mrs. Frank Gilbert, of Pottstown, formerly Miss Shrom, of Bellefonte, is visiting her relatives here.

Mr. F. C. Richard has returned home from Philadelphia, where he accompanied his daughter and grandson.

Miss White, of York county, Pa., and Miss Young, of Johnstown, are guests of Mrs. Mullen, wife of Capt. Amos Mullen.

Miss Helen E. Overton, the able and efficient teacher of the High School at Wilkesbarre, spent Wednesday in Bellefonte.

Mr. Harry Williams, the brilliant and handsome editor-in-chief of the Philipsburg Ledger, is a traverse juror in court this week.

Capt. Austin Curtin, of Roland, while at Mt. Gretna, met with an accident, which disabled his right arm and he is unable to use it.

Miss Eleanor Furst, of Cedar Springs, Clinton county, who has been a guest at the home of Judge A. O. Furst, departed Friday morning.

Miss Lena Jamison, one of Bellefonte's fair daughters, was visiting Mrs. S. T. Lobaugh, in Centre Hall. She returned on Friday morning.

Messrs. George and Harry Bush attended a party at the residence of Mr. Jacob Scott in Lock Haven on Tuesday evening of last week.

Mr. P. A. Welsh, of Philadelphia, who is the architect for the new Arcade building being erected by Mrs. Bush, is at present in Bellefonte.

John P. Harris and family, of this place, we are informed, will camp on Nittany Mountain during the continuance of the Patrons' picnic.

Prof. William C. Schaeffer, President of the Palatinate College located at Meyerstown, Pa., is traveling through Centre county in the interest of that institution.

Mr. Howard C. Yerger went to State College Friday to make preparation for re-entering that institution the coming school term with the intention of completing the course.

Miss Griest, a charming young lady from New Castle, who is visiting at the home of Mr. T. E. Griest in Unionville, and Miss Brugger, of Unionville, were in Bellefonte last Thursday.

Mr Will Conley, one of Milesburg's prominent young merchants, while in Bellefonte on Thursday, gave the DAILY NEWS office a pleasant call. He is about to have a telephone put in his store.

Bellefonte was honored Friday with the presence of S. S. Blair, Superintendent of the Tyrone Division, who is giving his personal attention to the elaborate structure now in course of erection on the company's property, south of High street.

H. H. Harshberger, Esq., has attended almost every picnic this summer. He greatly enjoys these days in the woods. We have it on the authority of Hon. B. F. Hunter that Mr. Harshberger now weighs 12 pounds more than he did on the day of the Methodist picnic.

Mr. Youngman, the chief scribe of the Watchman, and Mr. Samuel Brooks, a representative of this paper, refreshed themselves on Friday afternoon at Haas' Roopsburg brewery. They found the lager at that place better than any similar beverage which is brought here from other places, and have reason to be especially gratified at the way they were treated by the proprietors. So long as lager is used as a beverage it is important that all who deal in it should patronize that made at home.

R. M. Magee, Esq., and his two sons returned on Wednesday evening from a most delightful trip, including a visit to some of the most interesting and instructive places in this country. They visited Coney Island and several other sea side resorts. In their trip through the harbor and bay near New York city they saw the famous Bedloe Island where Miss Liberty bids weary pilgrims welcome; the place where Arnold escaped to the ship Vulture; the scene of the Hamilton—Burr duel, and other historic spots. They also traveled up the Hudson, one of the most charming trips possible. En route, they encountered Messrs. John Bullock and John Powers and enjoyed their company for a while.

Personal Pencilings.

When Miss Ethel Swope and Miss Bertie Wolf, of Gettysburg, Pa., departed from here a few days ago they went to Centre Hall where they are now enjoying a visit. They promise to return before the week is ended—probably to-day—to renew their visit here.

Mr. Ed. Rankin and Mr. Harry Hutchinson, crack telegraph operators, came home on Tuesday. The only sad thing connected with this announcement is that it brought about the departure of Miss Montgomery, of Huntingdon, who was filling Mr. Rankin's place.

Mrs. Cox and her son, whose home is in Virginia, have been pleasing their friends in Centre county with their presence. After tarrying a few days with a former school friend of Mrs. C., Mrs. Wright, in Milesburg, they went to Snow Shoe to sojourn at the home of Dr. Stewart. Now, they are back again with Mrs. Wright.

Miss Elizabeth Reilly and Miss Marcie Seiler, of Harrisburg, are guests at the suburban residence of Mrs. Reuben Valentine, visiting Mrs. V.'s daughter, Miss Carrie. These attractive young ladies were guests at the same elegant home two years ago when they formed numerous acquaintances which they will be pleased to renew during their visit this summer.

Miss Ethel Swope and Miss Bertie Wolf, both of Gettysburg, Pa., who have been guests at the home of Mr. John P. Harris, departed on Saturday The presence in Bellefonte of these charming and delightful young ladies has been a source of infinite gratification to scores of society young folks. Their varied and elegant accomplishments and attractive manners made them the cynosure for numerous gallant attentions.

Vinton Beckwith, of Hannah, Centre county, called at the REPUBLICAN office on Tuesday and squared up all old accounts. He is now ready to start in anew. Vinton is a Democrat, but is a good, sensible fellow, and has been a subscriber to our paper for years. Although his township is Republican by a large majority, Vinton has been elected constable for several consecutive years, which shows him to be very popular at home, which is the best test of popularity. We find him an exceedingly pleasant gentleman to do business with.
